MAIL CLERK KILLED
AS SAFE IS BLOWN

Two Robbers Escape to Mountains With Valuable Loot, Pursued by Sheriff's Posse.

Redding, Cal., October 11.—Armed posses tonight are scouring the Siskiyou mountains on the Oregon-California state line for bandits who held up Southern Pacific southbound passenger and mail train No. 13 in Tunnel No. 13 at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon, shot and killed three train men and blew open the mail car and a safe, killing a mail clerk. The robbers escaped into the mountains with an unknown amount of loot.

The dead:
S. L. Bates, of Dunsmuir, engineer.
Marvin Seng, of Redding, fireman.
Sylvan E. Daugherty, of Ashland, mail clerk.

—Edwards, mail clerk.

Happened in Tunnel.

The robbery occurred as the train, the crack Southern Pacific-San Francisco Express, was emerging from the tunnel, south of Siskiyou, on the state line 17 miles south of Ashland, Ore. The engine was about 40 feet south of the tunnel entrance when an explosion blew away part of the roof of the tunnel and caused it to cave in on the train.

Two men participated in the robbery, according to advices received here. As the engine crew brought the train to a halt, these two advanced to the locomotive and shot the engineer, fireman and Johnson who was said to have been riding with them, although he was not on duty.

Bates and Seng are believed to have died instantly from bullet wounds in the head. Johnson was shot in the chest and died within a short time.

The bandits then ran to the mail car and blew open the door. This explosion is believed to have caused the death of Mail Clerk Edwards, the only occupant.

Secure Valuable Mail.

After gaining entrance to the car, the bandits are believed to have fired another charge of dynamite on the safe, containing valuable mail, blowing it open. They scooped up the contents and fled from the car, which already was burning.

A clerk in the baggage car, which was not touched, reported seeing two men run towards the front end of the train after the explosion in the mail car. The train was pulled out of the tunnel and the fire in the mail car was extinguished. The car was cut out of the train, which proceeded south with a new crew in charge.

INVESTMENTS

Everybody has to have a place to live and it is not convenient for everybody to own his own home. That is why investing in homes is such a good thing. We read much of the "landlord," but if you have money to invest—why not buy homes and be an ideal landlord? The Golden Rule kind. You will find that your money will grow and GROW and GROW into a neat fortune. Perhaps you have not thought of buying property!

IN REPORT MADE
BY FARM PROBERS

Committee, Named by the Legislature at Last Session, Finds Agricultural Department Efficiently Conducted.

Completely exonerating the department of agriculture and Commissioner J. J. Brown, the legislative committee, appointed under authority of a joint resolution to investigate the department, formally adopted its report and adjourned Thursday afternoon.

There was no division, all 12 members signing the report which was then placed in the hands of Governor Clifford Walker.

The report takes up in order various charges which have been made against the department and the commissioner. After clearing the commissioner of all charges concerning the Kittrell hotel expense voucher, the alleged raised bill from the Wrigley Engraving company, and the charge that he allowed J. M. Hillburn to draw unearned state money to pay a personal debt, the report disposes of other criminal accusations by stating that they were all of such a frivolous nature that the committee does not deem it necessary to go into full detail in this report, and that they had all been proven groundless and unsubstantiated by evidence.

Political Activities.

In regard to political activities of Mr. Brown and the employees of his department, the report says:

"We find that Mr. Brown and the department of agriculture did nothing improper or illegal, nor any more, in our opinion, than any other official or department would have done under like circumstances, or holding a similar position. However, in conclusion, we will state that we do not think that employees in any department should go out, while on the state's pay, for the sole purpose of electioneering for that department. But we find, in our opinion, that

Ford Running
For Presidency
In Nebraska

Letter From Secretary Does Not Request Withdrawing Name From Ballots.

Lincoln, Neb., October 11.—Henry Ford is a candidate for the presidency in the Nebraska primaries of the national independent progressive party, according to the belief of Secretary of State Charles W. Pool.

Petitions bearing sufficient signatures to put Ford's name on the ballots have been filed with Pool, and Pool has received a letter from Ford's secretary, E. G. Liebold, who says indicates Ford is in a receptive mood.

The text of the letter, however, was not revealed.

Under the law, the Ford petition cannot be removed unless Ford files a formal withdrawal from the presidential primaries.

Pool declared that he considered Liebold's letter a virtual acceptance and unless Ford later formally withdraws, his name will go on the ballot.

The progressive party, which has national headquarters in Omaha, recently asked Ford for some word as to his reaction to its drive to make him president on a progressive ticket, now being conducted on eighteen states. In so far as can be learned here, Ford has not yet replied.

AUTOMOBILE PLUNGES
OVER SIDE OF BRIDGE

Mrs. Hubert L. Culberson Suffers Fractured Skull. Condition Is Critical, Doctors Assert.

With the police department waging vigorous warfare on all violators of the traffic laws of the city and with hundreds of cases made since Monday, the toll of injured as the result of accidents Thursday reached a total of eleven, one of whom may die.

In one of the crashes the victims were returning home from attending a funeral and in another the car in which three women and a baby were hurt plunged through the side of a bridge, the occupants narrowly escaping death in the 20-foot fall to the railroad tracks beneath.

Atlanta police continuing their relentless crusade against traffic violators docketed a total of 65 cases Thursday, 46 of which were for specific violations of parking laws, 11 exceeding the speed limit and eight for reckless driving. The total number of cases made since last Monday, when the crusade began, now exceeds 1,000.

ELEVEN PERSONS HURT
IN CRASHES THURSDAY

The list of injured, one of whom is reported in a precarious condition at Grady hospital, includes:

Mrs. Hubert L. Culberson, 61 years of age, of 265 Gordon street, fractured skull and internal injuries. Physicians report that her injuries probably will prove fatal.

Miss Marjorie Culberson, 11 years of age, of 57 Howell place, broken arm, cuts and bruises about the head.

Mrs. Keith Culberson, mother of Marjorie, injuries slight.

Carolyn Culberson, 16 months old, escaped serious injury when her mother continued to hold her tightly when the machine plunged over a 20-foot bridge.

Miss Suzanne Miller, of 315 Spring street, Decatur, injured about face and body. Will probably lose sight of left eye.

Miss Virginia McDowell, of 451 Pulliam street, occupant of the same car with Miss Miller, injuries slight.

OFFOUNDER'S BODY

Savannah, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The state department at Washington will not hand to British officials protest made by Savannah organizations in the matter of the removal of the Oglethorpe bodies, according to news received here tonight. Noble Jones, an attorney, formerly of Savannah, presented the resolutions of the Sons of Colonial Wars protesting disturbance of the Oglethorpe graves and was informed that the protest would not be forwarded because Governor Walker had indicated to the state department that the people of Georgia desire that General Oglethorpe's body be removed to Georgia if permission can be obtained. The city council of Savannah had also protested.

GEORGE DECLARES

On Board Lloyd George's Special Train, St. Catharines, Ont., October 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—If the United States and Great Britain can reach an understanding that both stand for a rational peace, there will be peace in the world, Lloyd George declared today while en route for Niagara Falls.

Without such an understanding, he added, there will be no peace. No country, the former British premier said, could withstand such a union of forces for peace, which he declared, could be assured without the firing of a gun.

Lloyd George was greeted by large audiences both here and at Hamilton, on his way to the falls.

BALKY REICHSTAG

Body Adjourned When It Becomes Evident Enabling Bill Would Be Voted Down.

STRESEMANN ACCUSED OF USING BIG STICK

Is Fighting Tooth and Nail To Secure Measure Which Would Give Him Dictatorial Powers.

BY FERDINAND JAHN.

United News Staff Correspondent. Berlin, October 11.—Determined to take over dictatorial powers in Germany, Chancellor Stresemann is fighting the reichstag tooth and nail to force the empowering bill, which would grant him the widest powers, into law.

President Ebert Thursday gave Stresemann authority to dissolve the reichstag if the bill failed to pass.

A stormy scene followed when Stresemann addressed the parliamentary body.

Squeezed in a corner, fighting for his life, the government finally resorted to adjournment to save itself and the bill. Pan-German members had absented themselves from the voting, and their absence made it impossible to obtain the quorum necessary to pass the measure.

Adjournment, which delays action until Saturday, was the only way out.

Fillbuster Increases.

The meeting was fraught with dangerous elements. The fillbuster against the measure had increased when it became known that Stresemann had power to dissolve the reichstag.

No Threat Intended.

In debate on the measure Herr Graef, Pan-German deputy, virtually called Stresemann's dissolution threat a bluff, and assailed the chancellor for trying to club the reichstag with the threat of dismissal.

Bitterly attacking the chancellor he hurled the charge of "cowardice" in Stresemann's teeth.

Stresemann heard the attack in agitated silence. White, trembling and frightened looking, he mounted the platform as the house still echoed the hisses that followed Graef's speech.

No Threat Intended.

In a brief address Stresemann denied that his obtaining the power of dissolution from Ebert had a threat.

CAPTAIN ROPER
IS ATLANTA MAN

Captain W. G. Roper, mentioned in the following dispatch as having given testimony, is widely known in Atlanta, this being his home. He has a handsome residence on Habersham road, and his wife is a daughter of the late W. H. Venable and a member of the well-known southern family of Venable.

At the time of the Honda disasters Captain Roper was in command of a division of six destroyers, none of which was involved in the naval wrecks. He is now serving on a three-year cruise after having spent three years at his home here.

San Diego, Cal., October 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Evidence and arguments bearing on the destroyer disaster in which seven ships and 23 lives were lost off Honda, Cal., September 8, came to an end here today and the naval court of inquiry which for almost four weeks has been hearing testimony relating to the wreck prepared to transmit its findings to the secretary of the navy.

These findings, including such recommendations for trials by court-martial or other action as the court may deem advisable, will be made public in Washington some time next week.

Enabled by Court Ruling
To Sue Young Whitney Again

EVAN BURROWES FONTAINE

New York, October 11.—The appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn today revised a decision rendered by Justice Tompkins in New York in January vacating annulment of the marriage of Evan Burrowes Fontaine, a dancer, and Sterling L. Adair. Justice Tompkins' vacation of the decree on the ground that it had been obtained by fraud in 1920, was made on motion of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney against whom Miss Fontaine had filed a $1,000,000 breach of promise suit. The suit was dismissed when the annulment was vacated.

The appellate division ruled that Whitney was unable to make application for vacation of the judgment because he had not shown that a legal and equitable right of his had been invaded. The case came up on Miss Fontaine's appeal, although, in the meantime, Adair had died and Whitney had married Miss Marie Norton, of New York, in Paris last May.

Miss Fontaine obtained a decree of annulment on the ground that Adair had been previously married and had not been divorced and said the marriage had never been consummated. Whitney was then served by her attorneys with a summons and complaint in an action to recover $1,000,000 for alleged breach of promise to marry.

In an attempt to upset her case, Whitney brought the action before Judge Tompkins in Rockland county to have the annulment decree set aside. He was successful in this action, which was based on the ground that the court which granted the decree did not have jurisdiction.

Miss Fontaine's breach of promise suit, which was dismissed after the annulment was vacated, never has been settled in court, and the action of the appellate division today places her in a position where she can proceed to prosecution of her claims against Whitney, lawyers said.

In March, Miss Fontaine and her mother were indicted on charges of perjury in having obtained the annulment of her marriage through alleged fraud. These cases are still pending.

GOVERNOR WALKER AND STAFF WILL VISIT FAIR TODAY

Bronze Tablet in Memory of George T. Betts Will Be Dedicated in Agricultural Building.

WOMEN HOLD CENTER OF STAGE THURSDAY

Keen Interest Displayed in Every Kind of Woman's Craft on Display at Big Exposition.

Thursday was a special day set aside for the ladies by the management of the Southeastern fair and the center of interest for the day hovered between exhibitions of home culture and art and the swine of Georgia, for the swine breeders shared honors of the day with the women.

Every kind of woman's craft from tenderly cared-for garden flowers to artistic specimens of needlecraft and embroidery was on exhibition and drawing one of the largest crowds of the season.

Keen interest was displayed in the girls' teams, who gave demonstrations of their ability to bake bread, while stock judging by boys from the various agricultural colleges drew large crowds elsewhere.

Originally the day had been designated as Manufacturers' and Live Stock day, but a change in the name was decided upon by fair officials Wednesday afternoon.

Although the name had undergone a change, interest in the manufacturing exhibits was none the less. From all parts of the state and from outside points manufacturers had brought specimens and samples of the latest designs in machinery and mechanical wizardry, showing the great progress and adoption of the latest modern improvements in the industries of Georgia.

Governor's Day.

Friday is Governor's day. Press day and Georgia Association day at the Southeastern fair.

More than one hundred Georgia editors will be in attendance. Governor Walker and his staff will be guests of the association, as will members of the Georgia association.

At noon a bronze tablet in memory of the late George T. Betts, of Ashburn, will be placed in the agricultural building. It will be presented by the Southeastern fair. Mr. Betts, who was a former president of the Georgia association, and who did so much to develop diversified farming in Georgia, was a great friend of the fair, and as a tribute to his memory the officers and directors of the association arranged for the bronze memorial.

Governor Walker, Editor Joe Lawrence and Attorney J. J. Large, of Ashburn, will be principal speakers.

At 1 o'clock, the governor and his party, the editors, and the members of the Georgia association, will be entertained at lunch by the officers of the fair.

Will Be Given Dinner.

The visitors will then be shown over all the exhibits and amusements. At 6:30 o'clock at night the editors will be tendered a dinner by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Clark Howell, Jr., of the Atlanta Constitution, is chairman of the reception committee to the editors. He has appointed Lloyd Wilhoit, of the Constitution; John Paschal and John A. Brice, of The Journal, and James B. Nevin and Dudley Glass, of The Georgian, to assist in entertainment of the scribes.

Although Thursday was the fourth day of stock judging interest continued unabated. Greater significance is attached to live stock exhibits this year because of the growth of the mixed farming idea, which in many Break Up of First Proposition to Result in Loss of Cheap Fertilizer, He Declares.

POLITICAL INTERESTS
BLOCKED VOTE, HE SAYS

Accuses War Secretary of Trying to Injure Him by Selling Plant Piece-meal.

Detroit, October 11.—Henry Ford's offer for the purchase of the Muscle Shoals project in Alabama is still before congress and will not be withdrawn, Mr. Ford said today in a statement, his first public assertion since the sale of the Gorgas plant to the Alabama Power company.

Mr. Ford charged that political influences were brought to bear to keep him from obtaining the plant and these "same influences prevented a vote in the house last spring" on the sale of Muscle Shoals to the Ford Motor company.

Ford Statement.

Mr. Ford's statement says: "The United States government, through Major General Lansing H. Beach, asked me to bid on Muscle Shoals, not on a piece of Muscle Shoals. I did so, and because my bid included all of Muscle Shoals, it was the only one thought worthy of reporting to congress. But I have a very strong conviction that while we have been negotiating with Mr. Weeks, we have not been negotiating with the United States government. John W. Weeks' repeated assertions that Henry Ford would never get Muscle Shoals, neither with the Gorgas plant nor without it, is evident that the parties to this matter are not the bidder and the government, but other parties best known to the man who is at present secretary of war."

"Long ago, Mr. Weeks matured in his mind the plan to break up Muscle Shoals and dispose of it piecemeal. When he sold the steam plant at Gorgas he pulled the first stitch in unraveling the greatest single prospect ever held out to the American farmer and manufacturer.

"Has Injured Farmers."

"The next steps are so plain that a child can see them. It only remains to sell the gigantic nitrate plant No. 1 and then nitrate plant No. 2 and finally the Wilson dam itself, and that is the end of Muscle Shoals as a possible demonstration of the cheapness with which power and fertilizer can be produced.

"This plan was forced by John W. Weeks, for the purpose, as he thought, of injuring Henry Ford, which shows how much a Boston bond broker, in politics for justice, knows about industrial problems. But the injury has shot past Henry Ford and has landed on the farmers. I was willing to demonstrate at Muscle Shoals that power and fertilizer could be produced at much lower cost than now and that the government could be assured of an adequate supply of war nitrates. EIGHT CHILDREN DIE AT CROSSING

Akron, Ohio, October 11.—Eight children were killed and three others and one man seriously injured this morning when the Cleveland, East New York to Cleveland train on the Pennsylvania railroad, struck a horse-drawn school bus on a grade crossing one mile north of Rootstown in Portage county. The bus was on its way to the centralized school at Rootstown.

One girl and four boys, passengers in the bus, escaped uninjured.

The dead: Mildred Shaw, 11; Harold Shaw, 9; Yerna Shaw, 12; Margaret Kuntz, 12; Julia Wamick, 13; Ella Stancich, 14; Thelma Ben-shoff, 9; Richard Silves, 9.

The injured: Lawrence Shaw, 8; May die; Steve Wamick, 9; Stanley Ben-shoff, 6; Louis Kline, driver of the bus.

County and school officials are at a loss to explain how the accident happened. The crossing where the crash occurred affords a clear view of the track for sixty rods, it is said.

The bus was nearly across the tracks when struck, the horses escaping uninjured as the vehicle was torn away behind them.

The dead and injured were picked up by members of the train crew and taken to the Ravenna morgue and hospital.

The presence of the two-year-old Shaw child on the bus was explained by the statement that she was being taken to school by her sisters to be shown to the other children.

In their investigation officials learned that the train was running late, it rounded a curve 200 yards from the crossing at high speed, it was said, and the bus driver saw it too late to get in the clear.

The five children who escaped jumped when they saw the train. Roy Ben-shoff crawled from under the sixth car of the train uninjured after it had been stopped.

BROWN IS CLEARED IN PROBE REPORT

the employees of the agricultural department and J. J. Brown have not been more active in his campaign than any other department.

Regarding the number of oil inspectors, the committee gives its opinion that the amount of gasoline tax collected would be seriously reduced with a reduction in the number, and recommends to the legislature that the information on the amount of oil imported into the state gathered by these inspectors should be furnished to the comptroller general's office as a check in the collection of the 3-cent state tax on gasoline.

In regard to the oil inspection system, the report says the committee neither defends nor condemns it, but finds that it is run as provided by law and if there is any defect in the system it is a fault in the law which the legislature should change.

System Is Approved.

The system of fertilizer inspection was approved with the sole criticism that, during the peak season, there were not enough inspectors provided under the law to make all the tests requested by Georgia purchasers.

The activities of the bureau of markets are reviewed and the committee finds that the bureau "seems to be making great efforts to function properly for the benefit of the farmers."

The report points out that practically all witnesses against the department were either former employees who had failed of reappointment, or applicants, who had failed to secure positions.

The report concludes with a review of the committee's efforts to make Grover C. Edmondson and Charles E. Stewart, leaders in the attack on the department, testify, and the response advanced by these men for refusing to do so.

The report is signed by all twelve members of the committee as follows: G. W. Lanford, chairman; E. B. Dyles, secretary; Thomas E. Green, C. B. Calloway, Carl N. Gress, F. A. Smith, Calvin W. Parker, C. B. McGarity, H. L. Howard, J. Scott Davis, W. R. Little and O. R. Bennett.

Brown Makes Statement.

Following formal adoption of the report, which was done in executive session, Commissioner Brown came before the committee and asked permission to speak a final word. The commissioner thanked the committee for the effort it had expended in the investigation and for the report.

of the entire committee and he believed that every member would do his utmost, both as a legislator and a private citizen, to stop future unwarranted attacks against officials of the state.

O. R. Bennett, a member of the committee, said that he had been told that he "would block" the committee. He said that any man who said that he even thought of doing this was a liar. He said that he had come to serve on this committee with the most sincere intention of making an impartial and thorough investigation, and stated that he had many times, during the course of the probe, gone on his knees at night and prayed his God to let him do the right thing.

Wanted Thorough Probe.

Carl N. Gress, another committee member, stated that he had been told that he had probably asked more searching questions during the probe than anyone else. He said if he had done this it was because of his anxiety to get to the bottom of every charge made and, if possible, to stop any further attacks on the department with their accompanying loss of time and expense to the legislature.

C. B. Calloway spoke briefly. He said that he was a lawyer of fifteen years experience. He said he was unable to judge the crop to be expected. He could not pass upon a pecan tree, but he could tell, after two questions were asked, if a witness was telling the truth.

With this knowledge, he said he knew early in the investigation just about how it was going to result.

Chairman Lanford stated that, after hearing all the testimony, he knew that if the committee had been a jury trying a case in court it would have returned a verdict of guilty without having to retire for consideration.

Gress Is Satisfied.

Assistant Attorney General T. R. Gress, appointed by Governor Walker to conduct the prosecution in the hearing, stated after seeing the report of the committee, that he was entirely satisfied and that their findings were in perfect accord with the testimony offered.

"In fact," said Mr. Gress, "with the evidence submitted I do not see how the committee could have done otherwise than find a verdict of exoneration."

Mr. Gress pointed out that, in making his final pleadings for the prosecution, he had been told that the committee would not hear his argument against the department and Mr. Brown in his capacity as assistant attorney general. He said he was entirely satisfied and that their findings were in perfect accord with the testimony offered.

case, for and against Mr. Brown, showed that the evidence was evenly divided. The evidence further shows that J. J. Brown was not a party to the transaction, and that said bill was never paid out of the funds of the state, but was paid out of the funds of the Georgia Engraving and Etching Co., a corporation organized in the state of Georgia.

Charges were made against J. J. Brown that he approved a bill to the Georgia Engraving company wherein the state was to be charged with the cost of the Georgia Engraving and Etching Co., a corporation organized in the state of Georgia.

All evidence produced before the committee, for and against Mr. Brown, showed that the Georgia Engraving and Etching Co., a corporation organized in the state of Georgia, was the party to the transaction, and that said bill was never paid out of the funds of the state, but was paid out of the funds of the Georgia Engraving and Etching Co., a corporation organized in the state of Georgia.

on from sixty to seventy-five cents per month each and retain the inspection fee from ten of these cars and turn into the treasury the balance. As to whether or not this number of inspectors could be reduced, and as to whether or not a reduction would affect the efficiency of the checking system in order to collect the taxes in a question for the legislature to consider. We will state that it is not true economy to get the checking for below the joint to where the state can secure an absolute check on the sales of the state.

We find from the records at the capital that the agricultural department, through its inspectors, collected the one-half cent per gallon tax on about eight and a half million more gallons of gasoline than the comptroller general collected the one cent tax on the same period.

We do not make this statement as showing any derelict upon the comptroller general in the administration of his office, as the law was clearly in his favor, and he was clearly justified in enforcing the duty placed upon him. We simply state that the law was clearly in his favor, and he was clearly justified in enforcing the duty placed upon him.

GARBAGE CHANGES TO BE ENFORCED BY POLICE TODAY

New ordinances changing the hours of collecting downtown garbage from morning to evening and prohibiting parking of automobiles within 200 feet of entrances to public parks were transmitted Thursday by City Clerk Walter Taylor to Chief of Police Heavers for enforcement. Business concerns are prohibited from placing garbage on the sidewalks for collection before 5 o'clock in the evening. Mayor Sims also requested Chief Heavers to enforce the ordinance to prevent trains blocking Hunter and Pryor streets for more than five minutes at a time.

WALKER TO ADDRESS SOUTHERN CONGRESS

Governor Clifford Walker has accepted an invitation to address the sixteenth annual convention of the Southern Commercial congress, which will be held in Richmond December 2, 3 and 4. Dr. Clarence J. Owens, president of the organization, called upon the governor Thursday to formally present the invitation.

The central theme of the convention in Richmond, Dr. Owens stated, will be the century of progress which the entire United States has enjoyed under the Monroe doctrine, which principle celebrates the centenary of its first promulgation on December 2. The governor of Virginia has issued a proclamation calling on all state governors to take part in the celebration.

It will be an international celebration, with diplomats from the countries of Central and South America, and leading statesmen from Europe, taking part.

Staff to Make Trip. Governor Walker will be accompanied to Richmond by his staff and he also will appoint one hundred prominent Georgians as official delegates to the convention.

The convention of the Southern Commercial congress will also coincide with the arrival in Virginia of the official party of the Jefferson Memorial foundation, which is conducting a transatlantic tour to the home of the American patriot at Monticello. This party will reach Atlanta on its national pilgrimage late in November, will be in Richmond in time for the congress, and will arrive at Monticello on December 5.

Hollins Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain Memorial association, has also been invited to address the congress on the subject of the Stone Mountain Memorial. Mr. Randolph has accepted the invitation. Speaking of the work of the Southern Commercial congress, Dr. Owens said that it was their central idea, at present, to work for a renewed stabilization of affairs in Europe, with the object of reopening for American trade the world and its aftermath of chaos. He pointed out that this organization is the author of the standard formula proposed for settlement of international debts and German reparations, a formula which already has been adopted by two powers—Great Britain and Finland. This formula calls for the funding of all international debts, and payment at the rate of 3 per cent annual interest and 1-2 of 1 per cent for amortization. This would result in full amortization of all debts in sixty-six years' time.

The congress has also organized the international trade commission, of which Dr. Greene is chairman and Senator Ralph Metcalf, of Washington, secretary. This commission directed two investigations of affairs in Europe, from the last of which it has recently returned, and it is through this channel that the formula for settlement of world debts has been promulgated.

Dr. Owens stated that the present German government has recently accepted this plan for settlement in a formal note to the Southern Commercial congress. The congress is now urging all nations to accept the same plan.

St. Elmo Massengale is Atlanta member of the board of directors of the congress.

FINANCES IN CARROLL GOOD, REPORTS SHOW

Carrollton, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—That Carroll county's finances are in splendid condition is shown by Commissioner J. A. F. Brown's report to the grand jury. His report shows that Carroll has a balance in the bank of $25,052.68, and that all bills are paid up to date. In addition to this the crops on the county's farm are fine and will reduce the feed bill for convicts and paupers materially during the next year.

Commissioner Brown has just completed the last lap of the Bankhead highway from Carrollton to Villa Rica and is now engaged in building a state highway from Carrollton to Bremen, which is part of state highway No. 1, from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Tallahassee, Fla.

Glidden to Head Fight in Georgia On White Plague

Dr. E. W. Glidden, superintendent of the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, was elected president of the Georgia Tuberculosis association Thursday at the first session of its annual convention here.

Assertion that Atlanta's anti-tuberculosis work is done more efficiently than that of any other city in the 36 states that it has visited, was made by F. D. Hopkins, administrative secretary of the national association, during the session.

Other officers elected were Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, first vice president; Dr. T. B. Walker, of Macon, second vice president; Miss Annette McDonald, of Cuthbert, secretary; T. K. Glenn, of Atlanta, treasurer; Dr. P. Thraash, of Atlanta, former president, and Mrs. F. G. Hodgson, of Atlanta, members of the executive committee.

Final Session Friday. The final session Friday morning will hear Mr. Hopkins and B. G. Eaves, national campaign chairman, discuss seal sale methods and will visit the Battle Hill sanitarium as guests of Dr. J. A. Bradford, superintendent, in the afternoon.

Tuberculosis is killing 127 persons in Georgia for every one that scarlet fever is killing, Dr. W. A. Davis, statistician for the state board of health, told the association. He reported that 2,600 persons had died of this disease in Georgia in 1922 but that more precautions are taken to prevent spread of scarlet fever.

The death rate could be substantially reduced, he said, if the public could be educated to recognize incipient tuberculosis and to report all cases in its early stages where cures are more easily made.

Attention to Negroes. Dr. Akridge, of Brunswick, Glynn county public health officer, asserted that more attention to negro cases is needed to reduce the negro death rate and to reduce the risk of white contagion through negro domestics.

Miss Virginia Gibbs, of Marietta, stressed the importance of Christmas seal sales to finance work of local associations among charity patients. The seal is the most important revenue source of most local seals.

Miss Ruby Bush, of Atlanta, told the association of work in city schools to prevent tuberculosis among children and to cure the disease among children in its early stages. She stated that tuberculosis here has been reduced to the lowest possible minimum.

National Secretary Hopkins stated that the national association is devoting its efforts largely to developing the most efficient systems for public control of tuberculosis, leaving application of the systems to state and local associations. In this connection he stated that in all the 36 states through which he has traveled on tuberculosis work he has not seen a more efficient system than in Atlanta.

Praises Atlanta Work. "Many cities have more elaborate plants and more expensive equipment than Atlanta," he declared, "but none of them are doing more complete work in reaching consumptives, treating them and following up their cases and their surroundings after they have been cured."

The delegates were entertained at luncheon in the Wineoff at noon as guests of Mrs. F. G. Hodgson. Representative

NEW STEPS FEATURE CASTLE BILL TONIGHT

Ballroom dances, offering a hint to Atlantans who like to keep up with the newest steps rather than the plastic poses of the classic ballet or the gymnastic gyrations of the Russian school, will make up the program of Irene Castle and her partner, William Reardon, when they appear tonight at the Auditorium and it is expected that hundreds who care not at all for the purely stage type of dancing will flock to "steal a lesson" from the most famous of all teachers of modern steps.

"The program includes several new fox-trot modifications and a new waltz, with a wild new tango adapted from the Argentine, and the famous 'Flirtation Walk' and 'Castle One Step.' The music, provided by Dyke Yellman's widely-known Broadway jazz orchestra, should prove almost as attractive as the appearance of Miss Castle herself, and the company includes several other entertainers who will keep the audience amused while the dancer is making her dozen changes of costume.

Seats for Miss Castle's engagement are on sale at the store of the Cable Piano company. She appears under direction of the Southern Musical bureau.

IVAN E. ALLEN IS NAMED PRESIDENT OF STATIONERS

Ivan Allen, prominent Atlanta business man and former state senator, was elected president of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers of the United States at a meeting held in Des Moines, Iowa, Thursday.

Mr. Allen has been attending the annual convention of the organization in Des Moines this week and news of his election as president was received here Thursday afternoon.

First Presbyterian Leads Winning List At Lakewood Fair

The First Presbyterian church of Atlanta has the distinction of winning six awards, the largest number given at the Southeastern Fair Sunday School booth, which is arranged by the Georgia Sunday School association. Tabernacle Baptist and First Christian won five each.

Eight Sunday schools and two vacation Bible schools have been announced winners as follows: Decatur Methodist, winning four; First Presbyterian, 4; Gordon Street Presbyterian, 4; First Baptist, 2; First Christian, 5; Druid Hills Presbyterian, 1; All Saints' Episcopal, 1; Hull Memorial of Savannah, 1; Salem Methodist, 1; Trinity Methodist, 1; Payne Memorial Methodist, 1; St. Paul Methodist, 1; Lakewood Methodist, 1; Lakewood Baptist, 1; Park Street Methodist, 4; Woodward Avenue Baptist, 2; Barnett Presbyterian, 1; an Athens Episcopal, 5. The Tignall Community Vacation Bible school and the Decatur Community Vacation Bible school won prizes even for vacation Bible school work.

Entries were made by 22 Sunday schools and six vacation Bible schools, which is a much larger number than entered in previous years.

SUIT OF WILLIAMS AGAINST LEADERS OF KLAN FAILS

After the jury had been out for only a few minutes in city court Thursday in the suit of Williams against the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, E. Y. Clarke, former acting imperial wizard, and Colonel W. J. Simmons, emperor, a verdict for the defendants was returned.

Williams who had held the rank of klingle in Virginia, doing organization work for the Klan in that state, claimed that he was due several thousand dollars for expenses and commissions.

Y. M. C. A. LEADERS TO CONVENE TODAY

The southern regional conference of the Y. M. C. A. will open here tonight with a banquet at the Wine-off hotel at which the Emory Y. will be host. D. F. Folger will preside. Twenty secretaries from the southeast will attend. Sessions will be held at Emory university.

Conrad Hoffman, of Geneva, Switzerland; Milton Stauffer, of New York; J. W. Bergthold, student secretary for the south, and Fred Barnett, Vanderbilt Medical college Y. M. A. C. secretary, will be speakers during the conference which continues through Saturday.

Before You Invest in a Home—Investigate CONCRETE BRICK

When you do you will be surprised at their many evident points of superiority as a building material.

You are already familiar with the sturdy concrete construction of Atlanta skyscrapers, hotels, factories, streets and schools. CONCRETE BRICK now make this great concrete strength available to you in handy units for home building. CONCRETE BRICK form a wall as unyielding as solid rock.

A structure built of CONCRETE BRICK also has superior fire resisting qualities. In the process of manufacture, Portland Cement is burned at a heat of 2800 degrees, a higher temperature than is required to make steel.

Absolute Precision in Every Stage of Manufacture

CONCRETE BRICK are manufactured by precise methods that make them always the same shape and size. They never shrink, warp or twist. They lie evenly, bonding in a viselike grip with the Portland Cement mortar in which they are laid.

Build of CONCRETE BRICK if you would build for permanence.

This is one of a series of advertisements telling about the home-building advantages of Concrete Brick. Watch for the next.

Fordson Power Show

At the Southeastern Fair, Oct. 6-13

Over a 10 mile haul it cost a certain lumber company $2.15 per thousand to haul 1500 feet of lumber per day.

With a Fordson they hauled three loads of 3000 feet per load at a cost of 75 cents a thousand feet.

This saving was brought about by the greater hauling capacity and more trips per day of which the Fordson was capable.

Contractors, manufacturers, mill operators, any kind of business men who use power, find in the Fordson a possible saving. We are holding this demonstration to show how you can profitably use the Fordson in your business.

Look over the working exhibits and see how a Fordson will permit you to reduce power costs.

Stop! haphazard Lubrication

Why wear out an expensive car in half the time it should serve you?

Why pay this constant, burdensome expense for repairs that can be avoided?

Your car was made to give service; not to wear and give trouble.

There can be no wear if lubrication is perfect.

GEORGIA BANKERS TO AID FARMERS

Moultrie, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Representatives of the leading banks of southwest Georgia at a conference here today endorsed the Colquitt county program of mixed farming, and pledged themselves on their return home to lead in the establishment of local organizations to put a similar system of farming into practice in their counties, using the one home farm of thirty acres as a unit.

The Colquitt farm plan is:

"Corn, velvet beans and runner peanuts, 10 acres; oats, followed by peavine hay, 5 acres; sweet potatoes, sugar and sorghum cane, millet and garden, 5 acres; melons, Spanish peanuts or tobacco, 3 acres; truck, 2 acres; cotton, 5 acres; permanent pasture on waste wet lands, 3 to 5 acres; three to five milk cows, two brood sows and 50 pure bred hens."

This schedule of crops, with minor changes to meet local conditions, can be followed in southwest Georgia generally, the bankers present asserted. The bankers without dissenting vote endorsed the Georgia Peanut Growers' Cooperative association and urged the banks of the state to cooperate with it as fully as possible. The resolution also endorsed the cooperative marketing of all farm products. Another resolution which said that no farm, large or small, is complete without cattle, hogs and poultry urged bankers to lend worthy farmers money with which to "add this safe auxiliary to their operations."

Asserting that it had been demonstrated beyond question that it was "unwise to try to raise a large acreage in cotton because of the boll weevil menace," the meeting went on record as being in favor of reducing cotton acreage to not more than five acres per plow, and the substitution of watermelons, truck, tobacco, and peanuts as cash crops.

In connection with the discussion of cotton, the bankers pledged their best efforts to launch cotton stalk destruction campaigns in their respective counties. It was agreed that when this work is done early enough it is one of the best known methods of combating the boll weevil.

The meeting was held at the Moultrie Country club. W. C. Vereen, president of the Moultrie Banking Company, presided and gave the session a business-like appearance at the outset by stating that there would be no welcome address and no response. In addition to the bankers, a number of newspaper men were present.

Among those taking part in the discussions were Joseph A. Davis, H. T. McIntosh, and Paul Brown, of Albany; C. W. Hillhouse and J. A. Alford, Sylvester; W. M. Smith and R. L. Free, Doerun; B. H. McCloud, Tifton; F. A. Barrow and B. U. Curry, Pelham; C. E. Thrasher, and W. G. Shingler, Ashburn; J. L. Paulk, and J. M. Willis, Ocilla; W. Stokes, Moultrie, Abial Winn, Valdosta.

ZEBULON AUDIENCE INDORSES SENATOR

Barnesville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Senator William J. Harris was here Thursday afternoon to attend the Lamar county fair and was extended a cordial greeting from hundreds of citizens. He spoke at Zebulon, Pike county, in the morning and was given a unanimous vote of approval by large audience.

Of a total of $478,000,000 of minerals mined in Alaska, $328,000,000 was in gold.

THROUGH ROUTE ORDER PERMANENTLY BANNED

A permanent order enjoining the interstate commerce commission from enforcing its order requiring the American Railway Express company to through route at Washington all shipments from New York and other New England points to stations on the main line of the Southern railway, was handed down Thursday by Federal Judges Bryan, Sibley and Ervin. Judges Sibley and Ervin handed down the majority decision, and Judge Bryan a minority order. The opinion subscribed to by Judges Sibley and Ervin held that the principal question at issue was "whether the American Railway Express company is entitled to a long haul of traffic originating on its lines if no unnecessary delay was caused thereby."

The majority ruling was that an express company is a carrier by rail within the meaning of the interstate commerce commission regulations and therefore could not be required to short haul unless long hauls would result in unnecessary delay.

Judge Bryan, in his dissenting opinion, held that "if express companies are included within the term 'carriers by railroad,' and therefore have a right to the long haul over the railroads with which they have contracts, then the American Railway Express company, having such contracts with all railroad companies except the Southern, has it within its power to prevent competition by express companies, and thus, to a considerable and dangerous extent, to monopolize the express business of the entire country. The whole

FORDSON EXHIBITION ATTRACTING CROWDS

The Southeastern Fordson power exhibition being staged at the Southeastern fair by the Ford Motor company and its dealers is easily one of the greatest attractions at the fair. Thousands ride on its L, T & I railroad, powered by a Fordson, each day, and many more watched the Fordson acting as stationary and mobile power plants for almost every form of industrial and agricultural power equipment.

The saw mill, the light and power plant, the street sweeper, the log skidder, the big water pump and a hundred other pieces of modern machinery are being powered by Fordsons.

The Odum-Abston booth, showing the latest approved shop and industrial equipment, has attracted the interest of the mechanically inclined and the curious, as well as the hundreds of automobile dealers and garage owners attending the fair.

One enterprising Ford dealer from Enterprise, Ala., chartered a pullman to bring many of his prospects on Fordson to witness the exhibition of the Odum-Abston booth. Hundreds of other dealers brought one or more prospects with them, and more than 200 bankers from the Atlanta territory visited the exhibition as guests of the local Ford branch.

Cox and McManamy To Be Honor Guests At Barbecue Today

An old-fashioned Georgia barbecue with all the trimmings will be tendered by the Traffic club of Atlanta to Frederick E. Cox and Frank McManamy, of the interstate commerce commission, who are in Atlanta in connection with a freight rate hearing begun last year, the banquet to be spread at Verner's lodge on the Peachtree road at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

This is the first occasion that two members of the interstate commerce commission have conducted hearings in Atlanta. Last year when the freight rate hearings were begun Commissioner Joseph R. Eastman came to Atlanta for several days. Additional claims of both carriers and shippers will be laid before the two commissioners, several representative shippers and carriers having been invited to appear before them.

Owing to congestion at the federal building, due to the present session of the district court, being held in room 123, Piedmont hotel.

POWER COMPANY HEAD DEMANDS LARGER RETURNS

Charlotte, N. C., October 11.—Announcement that the Southern Power company "is through" its development of hydro-electric projects in this state unless the state corporation commission allows "an increase in the wholesale rate of power to $1.40, as against $1.25 it now allows," was made here today by J. B. Duke, president of the power company and millionaire New York financier.

Mr. Duke added that "I have put $20,000,000 of my own money into the Southern Power company so far. I have never taken one cent out of it and never expect to."

The average annual return from the great developments in this state and South Carolina has been "not more than four per cent," said Mr. Duke, and "these small earnings have already been put back and many millions more."

In his announcement Mr. Duke, who expects to leave within a few days to inspect great hydro-electric projects another of his companies is building in Canada, said "I am ready to proceed to spend more money to build more plants to create more power for further development of the Carolinas, but I am not willing to spend it on the basis of the returns the Southern Power company is now allowed." He said the records of the company would be laid before the state corporation commission but that his company did not expect to send a representative to Hetcher nor "engage in a controversy with that official body or any other about a rate increase."

FACCENDA IS HELD AS MURDER SUSPECT

Philadelphia, October 11.—A charge of suspicion of murder was lodged against Ernest Faccenda early today by detectives investigating his alleged admission that he saw Emma Dickson, 15-year-old Millville, N. J., high school girl, slain in the swamps along the Fort Elizabeth highway near her home at Bricksboro.

Yesterday Faccenda was held in jail by a magistrate as a material witness. It was after the return of Peter Sheller, a member of the police "murder squad," from the scene of the crime that the more serious charge was lodged against the prisoner.

Faccenda, who is 19 years old, admitted according to the authorities that he was a witness to the killing, but declined to supply additional details. He declared that he did not know the identity of the slayer.

Sheller said that Faccenda told him he had seen the girl killed on September 17 a short distance from the place where her body was found five days later.

"Further than that," said Sheller, "he refuses to talk. He appears to know who committed the crime, but is afraid to tell."

Detectives intimated today that another arrest was imminent. The Dickson girl disappeared September 13, and her body with the head crushed, was found September 22.

CONSIDER CLOSING BRIDGE AT EL PASO

Washington, October 11.—Advisability of closing at night the international bridge at El Paso, Texas, is being considered by treasury officials, as a result of requests from El Paso citizens that this be done in an effort to curb smuggling.

The opinion of customs, public health service and prohibition bureau officers as being obtained. Secretary Mellon also expects to get the views of the commerce and labor departments, and if it is the consensus of opinion that the bridge should be closed nightly, the state department probably will be asked to take up the question with the Mexican government.

COOLIDGE AND CUNO DISCUSS SHIPPING

Washington, October 11.—The international ocean shipping situation was discussed by President Coolidge with Doctor Wilhelm Cuno, former chancellor of Germany, who called today at the White House to pay his respects. Dr. Cuno explained to Mr. Coolidge that he had abandoned the political field in Germany when he laid down the chancellorship and his whole attention now was being given to ocean shipping, in which he long has been interested.

ATLANTANS TO ATTEND DAVIS HIGHWAY FETE

Atlanta's representation at Savannah on "Jefferson Davis Highway day" at the Tri-state exposition October 31 will be arranged here today by Isidor Gelders, executive secretary for the highway and editor of the Fitzgerald Leader. He will be here to confer with south Georgia editors in attendance at "press day" of the Southeastern fair and with officers of the memorial highway association.

It is planned to have Atlanta and the Stone Mountain Memorial association represented in the Jefferson Davis highway memorial pageant, which is to be the feature of the day at the Tri-state fair and which will mark the official opening of the first link of the highway.

The pageant is being produced under direction of Miss Helen G. Davis, a great-niece of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederate states, and his nearest living relative. It will be reviewed by the governors of Georgia and South Carolina, through both of which states the highway will pass.

A motorcade of 200 automobiles from points along the route of the highway in South Georgia will go to Savannah for the pageant and the other events of the day, which has been designated "Jefferson Davis Highway day."

for those walls of yours

If you could look at a room that has been Melлотoned, what you would see, would be more convincing than if we sang its praises for an hour.

If you can't do that, then we might say that if you want a choice velvety finish, having a depth and richness impossible to secure in any other way, then Mellotone your walls. Mellotone is made in both the sturdy colors and in those charming tone-tints so decidedly the thing this season. It comes in a can and goes on with a brush. Easy to put on. Can be washed. Has great lastingness. Ask any Lowe Brothers' dealer for samples of the finish or write direct to us.

A letter from one of my patients: I had been suffering for seven years with what doctors called Pellagra. Among them were three specialists.

A young friend of mine in Atlanta asked me to try you, as he had been benefited by you after being treated by seven doctors and given up.

I will say your treatment for pyorrhea has given me more relief than I have had in many years. I realize, of course, it will take time to cure me absolutely, for it is a disease of long standing.

Your treatment for pyorrhea has helped me more than all the doctors put together, and I thank you.

Sincerely,
MRS. JESSIE GREEN,
(adv.) Canton, Ga.

BLALOCKS LOSE IN COTTON CASE

Holding that, while there was much evidence introduced on the side of the defendant, nevertheless evidence for the plaintiff was sufficient to uphold the verdict of the jury, the Georgia supreme court on Thursday upheld the decision of the trial court in the case of J. R. Adams versus S. T. and A. O. Blalock.

This is the case which figured prominently in the campaign last year for the office of commissioner of agriculture, candidates being A. O. Blalock and J. J. Brown.

The case grew out of a loan made to J. R. Adams by A. O. Blalock, acting for himself and as administrator of the estate of S. T. Blalock, deceased. The two operated a bank and made the loan to Mr. Adams, taking warehouse receipts on a hundred bales of cotton as security. When the note fell due, it was renewed and, when at a later date, Mr. Adams sought a settlement, he found that the cotton had been sold four days after the first due date, at that time bringing around 24c per pound. In settlement, he was offered either the same amount of cotton, or a sum equivalent to the market price at that time, samples of the original cotton being furnished him. However, in the meantime, the price of cotton had dropped to about 13c per pound and Mr. Adams refused to accept a settlement on this basis and sued for the full value of the cotton at the 24c price.

The defendants contended that the contract in the case specified that the lender could realign on the cotton and carry at any time he saw fit, but the court held that, while there was evidence to support this point, the contrary evidence introduced by the plaintiff was sufficient to justify the findings of the jury.

The court held, in its opinion, which was written by Justice Bell, that it was powerless to reverse the ruling of the lower court, or the verdict of the jury, when there was sufficient evidence to justify that verdict and ruling, no matter how much evidence to the contrary might be introduced.

KEITH'S PLEASING Thursday Matinee Enjoyed Big Five Acts at Forsyth.

There are the sort of acts one enjoys through force of habit, so to speak, not because they are unusual; not because they are colorful and extravagant—and there is the act of the Eight Mascotte girls, headlining a splendid bill of Keith's vaudeville at the Forsyth theater the last part of this week.

Here is an act of pep and brilliance, of beauty and charm. Its performers are good to look upon and their dancing has reached that stage where it fascinates. They are dancers of a higher rank, wholly deserving of the abundant applause showered upon them by the three audiences at the Forsyth Thursday.

Then there is the act of the three Johnson brothers, in "A Few Minutes of Minstrelsy." The cockeyed boys entered into their turn with wholed energy and raced through a dozen minutes of laugh provoking songs and jokes. Particularly good was the one they pulled out, "We Have No Bananas" in the audience's verdict of "justifiable homicide" in favor of the intercomedian.

Miss Dora Vernon, whose voice has won her the deserved title of "International Song Artist," adds new laurels to her already imposing string in her appearance here this week.

Dupree and Dupree have something new in cycling.

ONLY 2 DAYS REMAIN FOR SEASON TICKETS

Only two days more remain in which music lovers may secure season tickets for the artist series, including Farrar, Kreisler and Rachmaninoff, the last closing at the Cable Pines company Saturday. While there has been a splendid sale, there are plenty of desirable seats to be had, as practically all seats in Wesley Memorial hall are desirable.

If there are any who desire to take advantage of the season ticket into but who are not in position to pay for their seats this week, they may call at the Cable store before Saturday night and reserve their seats, to be paid for later, before the single seat sale goes on for the first number, which will be November 27.

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR JAMES BEDFORD

Funeral services for James W. Bedford, of 34 West Peachtree street, who died suddenly Wednesday afternoon, will be held at the First Methodist church at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Interment in Northview cemetery.

Mr. Bedford was 47 years of age. He suffered an attack of heart failure while at his place of business, the W. H. Letton Seed company, 41 South Broad street, and died shortly afterwards. Formerly of Kentucky, he had been a resident of Atlanta for the last 18 years.

Beside his widow, four sisters, Mrs. R. E. Letton, of Paris, Ky.; Mrs. George Reed, Mrs. J. W. Ham and Mrs. H. M. Bunkin, all of Ocala, Fla., and one brother, Archie Bedford, of Paris, Ky., survive.

Athens D. A. R. Members Visit Great Memorial

Miss Mildred Rutherford and a party of United Daughters of the Confederacy from Athens visited Stone Mountain Thursday night to see the pictures and hear from Gutson Borglum his plans for carrying on the work.

Mr. Borglum showed them by drawings how the stone is being removed around the painted outline of General Lee's figure on the mountain, and how the carving will be done.

General Lee's head will be finished by January 19, the anniversary of Lee's birth, Mr. Borglum told them, and in order to keep the work going through the months of November and December, when the temperature on the side of the mountain will become very cold, he is preparing to use heaters in the area covered by the head, and will heat it with kerosine oil stoves.

Aided Memorial.

Laura Rutherford chapter of the U. D. C. at Athens, of which Miss Rutherford and her party are members, has made a "Founders' Roll" subscription of $1,000 to the memorial and naturally all members of the chapter are intensely interested. They drove down from Athens in automobiles and drove back after their visit.

Another "Founders' Roll" subscription of $1,000 by a U. D. C. chapter, the Savannah chapter, was announced Thursday. Notice of the subscription was received at memorial headquarters from Mrs. Robert J. Travis, corresponding secretary of the Savannah chapter. The subscription is made in honor of General Francis S. Bartow, of Savannah, the first Confederate general to be killed in the war between the states.

First battle of Manassas and his dying words were: "They have killed me, but never give up the fight." These words will be inscribed on the bronze tablet bearing General Bartow's name which will be erected in Memorial hall.

Atlantans continue their generous response to the request for assignment of the gas rebate to the memorial, according to Chairman Albert S. Adams of the citizens' committee to raise the Atlanta quota of the memorial fund.

Cards Are Furnished.

"Many gas consumers had aside their gas rebate cards when the rebate card, and now they cannot find the cards," said Chairman Adams.

"To give them another opportunity, the newspapers are generously printing a facsimile of the card, so that gas consumers can clip it out, sign it and send it to memorial headquarters, 504 Hurt building. This rebate card in the newspapers will serve the purpose just as well as the postcard we sent to gas consumers."

"We are getting several hundred assignments a day, but we are anxious to speed up the return as much as possible. I do not question that a majority of gas consumers will contribute their rebate to the memorial, but there is no reason why we should not finish up in a few days and let the memorial association go outside of Atlanta and devote its efforts to raising the money which outside people are ready to contribute as soon as Atlanta has done her part."

"Delay, the longer outside contributions are delayed."

Chairman Adams will have the first meeting of the citizens' committee at the Chamber of Commerce assembly hall next Monday evening at 6 o'clock.

County Commissioners Ordered To Pay Bill Or Serve Jail Term

County commissioners when ordered by a superior court judge on mandamus proceedings, to levy and collect a tax, are liable to punishment for contempt if they fail to do so, the state supreme court held in a decision Thursday. Commissioners of Wilcox county being ordered to collect a tax and pay a bill or go to jail.

J. W. Lott brought suit against the commissioners, setting up a claim of $358.81 for supplies furnished the county chancery and demanded the collection of taxes to pay this account. The superior court ordered the account paid and the supreme court affirmed this decision.

Then, at a later term, Lott started new proceedings, charging that the court order had been ignored and a rule nisi hearing followed. The judge, at this time, ordered the account paid in five days or the commissioners jailed for contempt. The supreme court Thursday upheld this second order.

B. R. BECK, OF DECATUR, TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Barnwell R. Beck, 73, retired cotton merchant, who died Wednesday afternoon in Decatur, will be held today at 12 o'clock from the First Baptist church of Decatur. Mr. Beck formerly lived in Eatonton. He came to Decatur about four years ago.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva Jones Beck; one son, Gordon R. Beck, of Eatonton, Ga., and one brother, J. L. Beck, of Ocala, Fla.

An Arkansas man recently canvassed his home town for funds with which to push a suit for divorce from his wife.

BELL NAMED HEAD OF FOOD DEALERS

Ernest L. Bell, Atlanta grocer, was elected president of the Georgia Retail Food Dealers' association, at the annual election and installation of officers Thursday afternoon in the Ansley hotel, which brought to a close the two-day convention of the association. Other officers named were: J. E. W. Mendenhall, Savannah, first vice-president; J. Walker Collins, second vice-president; Morris Weinberg, Atlanta, treasurer; R. V. Bergen, Atlanta, re-elected secretary.

The board of directors follows: H. T. Wilson, Savannah; H. Kennington, Macon; J. H. Bulloch, Atlanta; Frank H. Marshall, Savannah; S. C. Stewart, Savannah.

A visit to the Southeastern fair Thursday afternoon as the guests of the Atlanta Retail Food Dealers' association marked the close of the entertainment program. Approximately 400 delegates were in attendance.

The morning session was given over to general business, addresses on problems confronting the grocery trade. Among the speakers were Francis E. Kamper, well-known Atlanta grocer, who spoke on the "Possibilities of the State Association"; John Coode, of Nashville, president of the Tennessee Retail Grocers' association and director of the national association; J. R. Bachman, of the Atlanta Milling company, and A. E. Ahelidon, of Chicago, Ill.

Wells Indorsed To Head Fulton County Schools

Unanimous indorsement of J. A. Wells, of Fulton high school faculty, for county school superintendent to succeed Superintendent J. W. Simmons next year was voted Thursday by the Fulton High Parent-Teacher association. Mr. Simmons is not to stand for re-election.

The resolution was introduced by Mrs. Litchenwaller, of Lakewood, and the motion to adopt it was made by W. F. Dykes, principal of Fulton high school and former superintendent of Atlanta schools. Twenty members of the Fulton high faculty and 108 members of the parent-teacher association voted to recommend Mr. Wells, according to Ernest C. Wimberly, secretary of the association.

Mr. Wells is a graduate of Georgia School of Technology and of the University of Georgia at Athens. He has been connected with the county system 11 years and has been teacher of English and accounting at Fulton high for two years.

Following Superintendent Simmons' recent announcement of his intention to retire, Mr. Wells and Mr. Dykes have been the only ones mentioned as possible successors. Mr. Dykes' motion to recommend Mr. Wells was considered to indicate retirement in his favor.

The superintendent for the next year will be elected by the county board of education in January.

The movement to consolidate the Atlanta and Fulton systems will not affect the board's election of teachers and officials for next year because the merger could not be effected until after action of the 1924 general assembly and subsequent action of both city and county school boards.

He was born in Forsyth county and was a son of the late Judge William T. Glower, of Fayetteville. For the last 30 years Mr. Glower had been a resident of Atlanta, being engaged in the real estate business until three years ago when he retired. He was a member of the Druid Hills Baptist church.

Besides his widow he is survived by one son, William Harris Glower, of Atlanta, and one sister, Mrs. J. O. Stinchcomb, of Fayetteville.

GEORGIA TO AID IN OBSERVING EDUCATION WEEK

N. H. Ballard, state superintendent of schools, has announced that the Georgia department of education will again cooperate in observance of American education week, November 18-24. National sponsors for this week include the American Legion, National Educational association, United States bureau of education and other organizations.

The week will open on Sunday and the slogan adopted for that day is "A Godly Nation Cannot Fail." Monday, the second day, will be devoted to discussion of "life, liberty and justice, how the constitution guarantees security and opportunity." The slogan for that day is "Bullets Not Bullets: Visit the Schools Today."

BABE RUTH IS BIG STAR AS YANKEES DEFEAT GIANTS

Pinnacle of World Series Fame Is Reached by 'Demon Of Swat' in Second Game

Clouts Out Two Homers Off Giant Pitchers. Herb Pennock Twirls Great Ball and Holds McGraw's Team After Taking Lead.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
New York, October 11.—Babe Ruth crossed with mighty tread today the threshold of world series glory that has been barred to him for two years.

Driving out two thundering home-run thrusters in successive innings, a feat unparalleled in championship baseball history, Ruth was the dynamo in the powerful attack that enabled the New York Yankees to turn the tables on the Giants, capture the second game of the series by a score of 4 to 2 and square the count with the world's title holders in the 1923 struggle for diamond supremacy.

First up in the fourth inning, with the score tied at one-all, the great slugger put the Yankees into the lead with a terrific, towering ball that landed atop the second tier of the right field grandstand and started the downfall of Hugh McQuillan, Giant pitcher. Another run was scored in that inning, but on his next turn at bat, in the fifth, the Babe crashed one of Jack Bentley's snappy slams into the lower right field stands. That blow was the climax of the game; Yankee victory was clinched then and there, for it proved merely a formality to carry on to the finish.

It was a spectacular triumph for the Yankees, whose punch master John McGraw's strategy and gave them the first world series victory they have known since the fifth game of the 1903 championship—a span over which eight defeats and one tie have been the disastrous portion of the American league champions. It was a brilliant day for Herb Pennock, fragile left-hander, who twirled the Giants into submission in masterful fashion, and Joe Dugan, fleet-footed third sacker, whose marvelous defensive play brought him repeatedly into the limelight.

But, over and above the mere outcome of the game, the brilliant cogs that fitted into the winning Yankee machine, it was the day of days for Ruth, baseball's star of stars who has come into his own and found the end of the rainbow of world series fame for which he had sought before in vain. True, Ruth earned his spurs as a pitcher, hanging up a record of 29 scoreless innings in championship play that still stands; but it was batting laurels that the greatest home run hitter of all time was seeking and he gained them today. No matter what he does the rest of the series, his place among series immortals is secure.

Thus it was a triumph even greater for Ruth than for the Yankees; the second victory of brute force, the power of the wallop, over the tactical genius of John McGraw, baseball's master mind.

Ruth vs. McGraw.
For behind the struggle for premier diamond honors from the start has been the greatest drama of all, the matching of Ruth's dynamic individuality against the strategy of the gray-haired, silent leader of the Giants.

Two years ago Ruth was handicapped in the series by injuries; last year he was a "bust," outclassed, baffled by the tactics of "the little Napoleon." But tonight he is a triumphant figure, a vital force that upset with sheer might the best laid calculations of his opponent, and knowing the confidence that his great achievement today has inspired, he may prove the deciding factor in the outcome of the third straight battle between Gotham's rival clubs and spoil McGraw's goal of a third successive championship.

Ruth's feat of two home runs in a single world series game has been done three before in two decades of championship history, but in none of these instances were the circuit blows made in successive innings and successive times at bat. P. H. Dougherty, of the Boston Americans, was the first to accomplish the trick, in 1903. It was duplicated in 1915, by Harry Hooper, also of the Boston Americans, who drove out home runs in the third and ninth innings of the fifth game of the series with the Philadelphia Athletics; and again in 1917, by Benny Kauff, of the Giants, who hit for the circuit in the fourth and eighth innings of the fourth game of the series with the Chicago White Sox.

Yesterday the story of victory was one of giant strength, alertness and generalship, plus the decisive ninth inning home run of Casey Stengel. Today the situation was reversed and it was a punch, typified by Ruth, that decided the issue. And the Yankees won, because they carried their brains in their bats.

Yesterday it was the Yankees who knocked at, but could not open, the door of opportunity; today it was a tale of missed chances by the Giants, who were fewer than their opponents had in the opening game.

Pennock Was Hurt.
Pennock's victorious performance was all the more remarkable in the face of an accident in the fourth inning when he was struck on the side and painfully hurt by the first ball pitched by Bentley. Pennock fell to the ground, writhing in agony, and it required several minutes work upon him before he was able to walk to first base. But the mishap apparently did not lessen in the least his effectiveness, for he retired the Giants in order in the next two innings.

The Yankees gathered ten hits off McQuillan and Bentley, only one more than the Giants collected off Pennock, but the blows of the American leaguers were of the more solid variety. Both clubs hit hard sporadically and Ruth was not the only one to gain home run glory.

Aaron Ward, black-haired second sacker, who played an excellent all-around game, scored the first run in the second inning with a booming clout to the upper tier of the left field grandstand. In the Giants' half of the inning, Irish Meusel tied the score with a duplicate smash.

Ruth's first monumental crash opened the fourth inning, but the Yankees increased their advantage to two runs when Pipp singled, went to third on Young's lead-off home run, and scored on Scott's drive to center. That blow ended McQuillan's stay on the mound. Assuming the rescue role, Bentley filled the bases by hitting Pennock but then settled down to retire the side by forcing Witt to fly out.

After Ruth's second homer in the fifth—a count that brought the Babe one of the most thunderous ovations he has ever been accorded—Bob Meusel got to second when Young mishandled his single, but Pipp and Ward were easy for Bentley.

The first display of bitterness that has cropped out in the play of the rival clubs occurred in the sixth when the Giants' rally was checked after one run, the last of the game, had been scored. It looked as if the tide of battle was about to turn when Groh, Frisch and Young opened with successive line singles the third-sacker scoring on Young's blow, but here the Yankee defense stiffened behind Pennock's cool box work.

With Young on first and Frisch on third, Irish Meusel drove a grounder to Scott, who tossed to Ward with an easy doubleplay in sight. Young was forced out but in diving to second he upset Ward and blocked the throw to first. It was the signal for a vehement protest by the Yankees who gathered about Umpire Bob Hart to protest against Young's play, which, to the crowd, seemed a deliberate piece of tactics. The argument lasted several minutes before the players went back to their positions. It was something of the irony of fate that Cunningham, the next Giant batter, hit directly to Scott and this time the doubleplay went through and the Giant sortie was ended. The Giants had another chance to break through in the eighth when Young and Irish Meusel singled with two down, but Gowdy, batting for Cunningham, skied out to Witt. The champions went out in order in the ninth.

Ruth's Deeds Ended.
The Yankee half of the ninth witnessed a bit of drama in itself. Ruth, who had walked in the seventh, was in the offing, swinging his war club, and the crowd centered its interest in the possibility that the Babe might add another homer as a parting shot. With two out, Dugan paved the way for Ruth's turn at bat with a double.

Once the Babe swung and missed; next a ball, then the crack of wood and leather and a mighty shout. Astonishingly high and far out to center flew the ball, but under it settled Casey Stengel, hero of yesterday, who had come back for just one inning of play, and fans were written to the mighty deeds of Ruth for the day.

Here's the Man Who Wrecked The Giants' Hopes Yesterday

BABE RUTH
Babe Ruth, the star of all stars on the diamond, who regained his batting eye in yesterday's game with the Giants and reached the end of the rainbow in so far as world series fame is concerned when he crashed out two homers in successive innings. Babe was the main factor in the Yankees' winning yesterday's game with the Giants and evening the series with the former world's champs. With confidence returned by his feat of yesterday no doubt the Babe will continue on his rampage, at any rate his work will be watched with a great deal of interest.

BALTIMORE EVENS COUNT

Kansas City, Mo., October 11.—The Orioles evened up the count in the "little world series" being played here by taking the second game from the Blues Thursday, by a score of 3 to 1.

Each team scored in the first inning. For five innings they battled with the game having settled down to a pitching duel between Caldwell, of the Blues, and Groves, of the International league champs.

Upon Groves, side-wheeler ace of the Baltimore pitching staff, Manager Jack Dunn had pinned his hope for victory in the series, after the American association leaders had on Wednesday routed Rube Parkman, star right-hander, whose record with the Orioles this year stands undisputed.

The tie between the two teams was broken in the sixth inning when with two men on bases and two outs, Blakesley, 1b., singled to left field scoring Bishop. The Orioles scored again in the ninth.

With a two-run lead as an incentive Groves settled down to blank the Blues, and did.

How Yankees Beat Giants

First Inning.
YANKEES: Frisch tossed out Witt. Dugan walked, and four straight balls. Ruth walked, and the crowd howled. Meusel hit into a double play, Bancroft to Frisch to Kelly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning.
YANKEES: Groh threw out Pipp, making a nice play of Pipp's hot swing. Ward hit a home run into the upper left field stand. Schang lofted out to Snyder. Scott fled out to Meusel. One run, one hit, no errors.
GIANTS: Young popped to Dugan. Meusel hit a home run into the left field stand, trying the count. Cunningham fled out to Ruth. Kelly singled into right. Snyder sent up a high fly to Ward. One run, two hits, no errors.

Third Inning.
YANKEES: Frisch tossed out Pennock. Frisch also got Witt at first. Dugan fled out to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.
GIANTS: Dugan made a wonderful play off McQuillan's roller and threw him out. Bancroft fled to Meusel. Groh got a base on balls. Frisch singled into center field. Groh holding second. Young lined out to Ruth. No runs, one hit, no error.

Fourth Inning.
YANKEES: Ruth got a home run over right field stand. Meusel fanned. Pipp singled into right. Ward popped to Kelly. Schang shot a hot single into right. Pipp going to third. Young jugged the ball and got an out to Kelly. Pipp scored on Scott's single to center. Schang going to second. McQuillan was knocked out of the box at this stage and Bentley went in. Pennock was hit by a pitched ball. He fell to the ground, his face was contorted with pain and the players of both clubs gathered around him. The crowd cheered when he rose to his feet and limped to first base. The bases were filled. Witt fled out to Cunningham. Two runs, four hits, one error.

Fifth Inning.
YANKEES: Bancroft got Dugan at first. Ruth got another home run into left field stand. Meusel got a single into right, and when Young fumbled the ball he went to second. An error for Young. Pipp grounded out to Kelly, unassisted. Meusel going to third. Ward fouled out to Kelly. One run, two hits, one error.

Sixth Inning.
YANKEES: Bancroft got Schang at first. Scott got a single past Bancroft. Pennock hit into a double play, Bancroft to Frisch, to Kelly. No runs, one hit, no errors.
GIANTS: Groh singled over the middle bag. Frisch got a near-home run in the right field stand, the ball being fouled by inches. Frisch singled into left. Groh going to third. Groh scored when Young singled into left. Frisch halted at second. Meusel forced Young. Scott to Ward. Frisch went to third. The Yankees claimed that Young interfered with Ward in making a double play. Umpire Hart would not allow the claim. There was a long argument at second base. Cunningham hit into a double play. Scott to Ward to Pipp. One run, three hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning.
YANKEES: Bentley took Witt's hopper and tossed him out. Ruth walked. Ruth was caught off first. The play being Snyder to Kelly to Bancroft to Kelly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning.
YANKEES: Meusel fouled out to Snyder. Pipp walked. Ward singled to center. Pipp stopping at second.

Pinkey Hunt and Farnsworth May Be Shifted to Halfback Places and Carter at Quarter

Ivan Williams and Bob Reeves May Be Given Opportunity to Recuperate From Minor Injuries Before Notre Dame Game.

BY JOHN STATION.

It is possible that Hunt and Farnsworth will play halfbacks for Georgia Tech on Saturday against Florida. In the event that they do, Homer Carter will, no doubt, be shifted from quarterback on the pony backfield combination to the position in the first varsity backfield. For the last week in scrimmages, Coach Alexander has run Carter at quarterback, Hunt and Farnsworth at halves and Wyoff at fullback.

Neither Ivan Williams nor Bob Reeves is in the pink of condition. It will be remembered that these two chaps held down the halfback positions so efficiently against St. M. L. It may be that Coach Alex will save Reeves and Williams from the game to allow them to get in top shape for Notre Dame two weeks hence.

On the other hand, it is possible that Coach Alex is breaking Hunt and Farnsworth in together in order to use them as reserves for Williams and Reeves. Hunt, though diminutive in size, can absorb lots of punishment. Since coming to Tech he has never been totally incapacitated due to an injury.

Should Hunt and Farnsworth replace Williams and Reeves in the game, Homer Carter will probably be sent in to take quarterback, and Hunt will just change his position to half. He operates with equal effectiveness from either position.

Neither of the varsity teams was called into scrimmage yesterday. The rough work for the week is over. There will be nothing but signal drill, dummy work, and sessions on the kicking game this afternoon. And tomorrow comes the big game.

Yesterday, for the first twenty minutes, the varsity teams practiced set-plays on defense. The set-plays mentioned before, Florida employs an offense similar to that which Notre Dame presented last year. They have a "bush-bear" in the line of scrimmage, which is so bewitching to behold.

The bush-bear is that sometimes Florida shifts and then again she doesn't. Which means that Tech must be heads up all the time ready for anything. It is very straining to will be needed when the Orange tackle-play a good defensive game against this type of offense, but Tech should be equal to the strain.

Stopped Notre Dame Attack.
Last Year Notre Dame did no devastating damage with her running attack. In fact, Tech stopped that nicely. Even counting in the passes which Notre Dame completed, Tech gained three more yards than did the boys from South Bend. If Tech can stop Notre Dame in the same manner, then there still remains an opportunity to win the game.

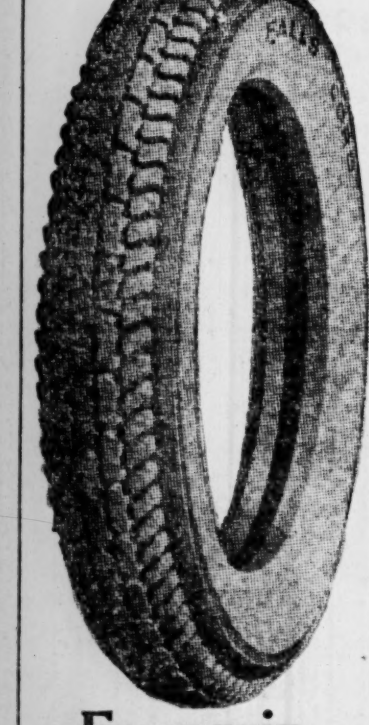

The Florida team, while possessing speed, endurance and driving power, is not as experienced as the Tech machine. Schang fled out to Meusel. Scott fled out to Meusel. No runs, one hit, no errors.

GIANTS: Dugan threw out Groh. Scott threw out Frisch. The crowd cheered Young while the Giant rooters cheered. Young got a single into center. Meusel singled into left. Young going to third. Gowdy batted for Cunningham, and fled out to Witt. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning.
YANKEES: Stengel went into center field for the Giants. Bancroft threw out Pennock. Frisch threw out Witt. Dugan got a two-base hit into left. Ruth sent a high fly out to Stengel. No runs, one hit, no errors.

GIANTS: Dugan threw out Kelly; another sparkling play by Dugan. Scott threw out Snyder. Jackson batted in place of Bentley, and fled out to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Bob Cruickshank Tops Field Of Qualifiers in Western

Turns in Score of 140 After Two Days of Play at Memphis — Hutchison Equals Course Record.

Memphis, Tenn., October 11.—"Wee Boony" Cruickshank, of Westfield, N. J., small of stature but mighty of wrist, literally ironed his way to premier qualifying honors today in the western open golf tournament with a score of 140 for the two days of qualifying play, topping a field of 110 entrants in the battle for the western classic.

Cruickshank and 65 other players will battle through a 36 final tomorrow for the title. While major qualifying honors went to Cruickshank, today's play brought golfing laurels a plenty to others who will clash in the deciding round tomorrow.

"Jack" Hutchison equaled the course record of 67, four under par, in today's 18 holes and tied with Wilbur Oakes, Chattanooga; Wilfred Reid, Detroit, and Walter Hagen, New York, as runner-up to Cruickshank for low qualifying score.

Hagen ran Hutchison a close second for low-score honors for the day with a 68, six strokes better than his card of yesterday. He was out today in par and turned the inside nine in three under.

Oakes went the round today in only two over the course record and two under par, playing par golf on the first nine and clipping the par mark for the incoming nine by two strokes, which he gained by shooting eagle fours on three holes, one of which was the 492-yard difficult sixteenth.

Reid's total was par for the 36 holes. H. C. Lagerblade, Bristol, Conn., finished in third position in the qualifying test with a score of 143, which he accomplished by negotiating today's journey in a 69, playing the last nine in three under par after taking one more than the par mark for the outward journey.

Mike Brady, defending champion, tied with Bob McDonald, metropolitan champion, J. A. Kennedy, of Tulsa, and C. W. Hall, Birmingham Ala., with qualifying scores of 147, two strokes over that of Joe Kirkwood.

Show Good Form. All the players today showed better form than in the initial round. Most of the veterans got away in their usual stride, and many of them lowered their qualifying scores by clipping from two to six strokes from the first cards.

Leo Diegel, Washington youth, hung up a record for freak play this morning when he ran nine straight fours on the outward trip for a card of 30, 2 above par.

Only medium golf was required to qualify, scores of 182 falling within the requirements. Sixty-six will start in the final round tomorrow instead of sixty-four as originally planned, two extra players having made the required 162 for the first thirty-six holes.

The final round is thirty-six holes, and will be played in one day. The first pair will tee off at 8:30 o'clock, and the timing indicates the final match will reach the last green around 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The lowest individual score will be awarded the silver cup, emblematic of the championship.

Officials of the association announced tonight that tied scores in the final round, either for the title or the runner-up position, would be decided Saturday in an extra round of perhaps thirty-six holes.

Cruickshank was slightly off form today, finishing at par 71, two strokes above his neat 69 of yesterday. He was out in 36, and came back with a 35. The wee Scot played by the chart until he reached the seventh, where he took a five in lieu of par four. He repeated on the next one, but sunk a three on the short ninth.

Comes in Well. When he started back to the clubhouse, however, Bobby pulled himself and his clubs together, his chatter ceased and he set out upon his iron campaign taking five birdies in the nine holes.

Some of his tee shots electrified the gallery which had followed him and his partner, Walter Hagen, all afternoon and his approaches were more than consistent. Several times he found the rough in long drives from the tee, but invariably he squared his card with brilliant iron work.

The green the man from Jersey played consistently.

The serenity with which the tournament has progressed was interrupted slightly this afternoon when Leo Diegel protested his score for the last nine. Diegel claimed a birdie 4 on the sixteenth hole, whereas the scorer gave him a par 5. The protest was not filed, however, until after the card had been posted and scoring officials declined to change figures, although the scorer agreed with Diegel after checking the card.

The matter was submitted to officials directing the tournament.

The New York teams in this year's world series are champions of their respective leagues beyond any dispute. In some seasons the pennant winner of one league or the other may be considered more lucky than proficient. The Dodgers of 1920 were not of the class of champions. The Indians of 1921 would have been champions if the season had ended a few days sooner when they were in the lead. But in 1922, the Giants and Yankees have led their circuits all the way from April to October and a team which can stay on top of seven others for six long months has a pretty decent right to the title.

Tourist boxers who go romping from town to town, meeting one another and treating one another as gently as possible, will be glad of a warning to keep away from St. Louis, Jack Malone, of St. Paul, and Frank Carbone, of New York, boxed recently. They posted small forfeits, Malone $800 for 10 rounds. In the ninth, the commission ordered them tossed out of the ring, held up the purse and confiscated their forfeits. Malone and Carbone were doing what is known as a stroll.

"Babe" Ruth's Feat Will Stand in Baseball History For All Times

IS GREATEST FIGURE IN BASEBALL

New York, October 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—When the last baseball is tossed and the tarpaulin is pulled over the diamond to cover it for all time, and when the records of the game are compiled with finality, in all probability one mark will stand out unequalled at the top of the list. Alongside the record will be the name of George Herman Ruth.

And, if the compiler is human, he'll add in parenthesis "Babe."

Without doubt the greatest baseball figure since the game began, said by some to be "greater even than the game itself," Ruth's diamond history is too well known to be detailed again. Everyone knows that he first gained fame as a pitcher when he went to the Boston American league club from the Baltimore Orioles and that he first became celebrated as a world's series pitcher. Notable as were his achievements on the mound they did not compare with the prodigious batting that he accomplished when he came to the New York Yankees as a center fielder and slugger extraordinaire.

He holds the record for home-run hitting. But though he had participated in numerous world's series—this is his third since joining the Yankees—his always failed miserably to hit in the October classic. But today he came into his own, his two home runs being the margin by which his team triumphed over the Giants and evened the series.

Ruth's hitting could not have come at a more opportune time unless it would be in the deciding game. The victory today meant much for his teammates. It restored their confidence with the tremendous psychological advantage that entails and it enabled them to go to sleep tonight in the knowledge that when they next took the field, they at least are on even terms, and according to some critics, better than that, since the Giants have used up four pitchers.

Ruth today was officially credited with three times at bat, though he went to the plate five times. The first time, in the first inning, he was walked, but he was tagged out on the play when Meusel hit into a double killing.

Unknots Count.

Ruth's next appearance was in the fourth inning when he was the first

Little Happenings During Big Game

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York, October 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—John McGraw gambled again today with his pitching staff, but this time he lost. Still holding his ace, Southpaw Art Nehf, in reserve, he sent in Hugh McQuillan, the third right hander to face the Yankees in two days, but Hugh proved an easy victim. Jack Bentley, who succeeded him, demonstrated that the Yankees take none too kindly to southpaw slants.

Nehf may be McGraw's choice tomorrow, now that he has lost his opening advantage. Jones or Shaverkey appear likely Yankee mound candidates.

McQuillan was in trouble in the first inning today when he passed Dugan and Ruth, but the Giant infield came to his rescue with a double play on Meusel's grounder to Bancroft.

Ruth, the game's hero, was also the "zest" for a moment in the seventh when he was caught off first after receiving his second pass. He lashed for second when Snyder's quick toss caught him far from the bag, but was quickly retired, Kelly to Bancroft to Kelly. Two were out at the time and so the Babe's slip did not prove damaging.

After the Yankees' defeat in the first game, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the American league champions, invited his mother to attend today's game as the club's honorary mascot. The title changed with her presence and the colonel announced tonight she had been "signed" for the series.

Fluctuating with the tide of battle.

THE LAWS OF GOLF

—By INNIS BROWN

Q. Where two players are qualifying at medal play in a tournament, a ball belonging to one strikes that of the other in the fairway, is the player whose ball was displaced compelled to put it back?

A. Yes. The ball must be replaced as near as can be determined to where it lay before being hit.

Q. If a player makes a practice stroke less than a club length of his ball while it is in play does he lose stroke or the hole is match play? Also, what is the penalty in medal play?

A. There is no penalty for taking a practice stroke unless the club, or a club longer than the ball, so long as it does not infringe any specific rule in doing so, such as causing the ball to move, bending or breaking anything fixed or growing or the like. The mere matter of making the swing less than a club length from the ball is not a violation of any rule.

Q. In a single match one player putts and his ball stops on the edge of the hole on his fifth stroke. His opponent putts and holes out on his fifth. Is he entitled to knock the other ball away and claim the hole? Yes, but if he has already holed out and the other player then putted to the edge of the hole, he may not knock the ball away, but he may insist that the other player's ball be struck without delay in the hope that the ball may drop in.

Send in your questions to Innis Brown. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ATIP FOR THE ROUND.

Gene Sarazen says: A great source of trouble in long approach putts is regulating the backswing. Some players cut it too short and hit the ball with a jerk. Others overswing and ease up on the stroke. The important thing is to acquire a rhythm in the swing so that the ball is hit smoothly. This is necessary since the stroke is short compared to others in the game and there is very frequently a tendency to hurry through and be done with it.

Tomorrow—George Duncan on Playing the Mashie-Niblick.

WOMAN HANGED SELF, IS VERDICT OF JURY

McDonough, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Suicide was the verdict of a coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Elsie Nolan, whose body was found hanging from knotted bedclothes in a scrub oak thicket near here Monday afternoon. She had been absent from her home since last Friday, searchers hunting vainly for some trace of her until the body was discovered in the thicket. It is believed that the woman had been dead for several days when the corpse was found. She lived with her brother, Otha Piper, in Sandy Ridge district. No definite cause has been established for her action.

Truck Victim Better.

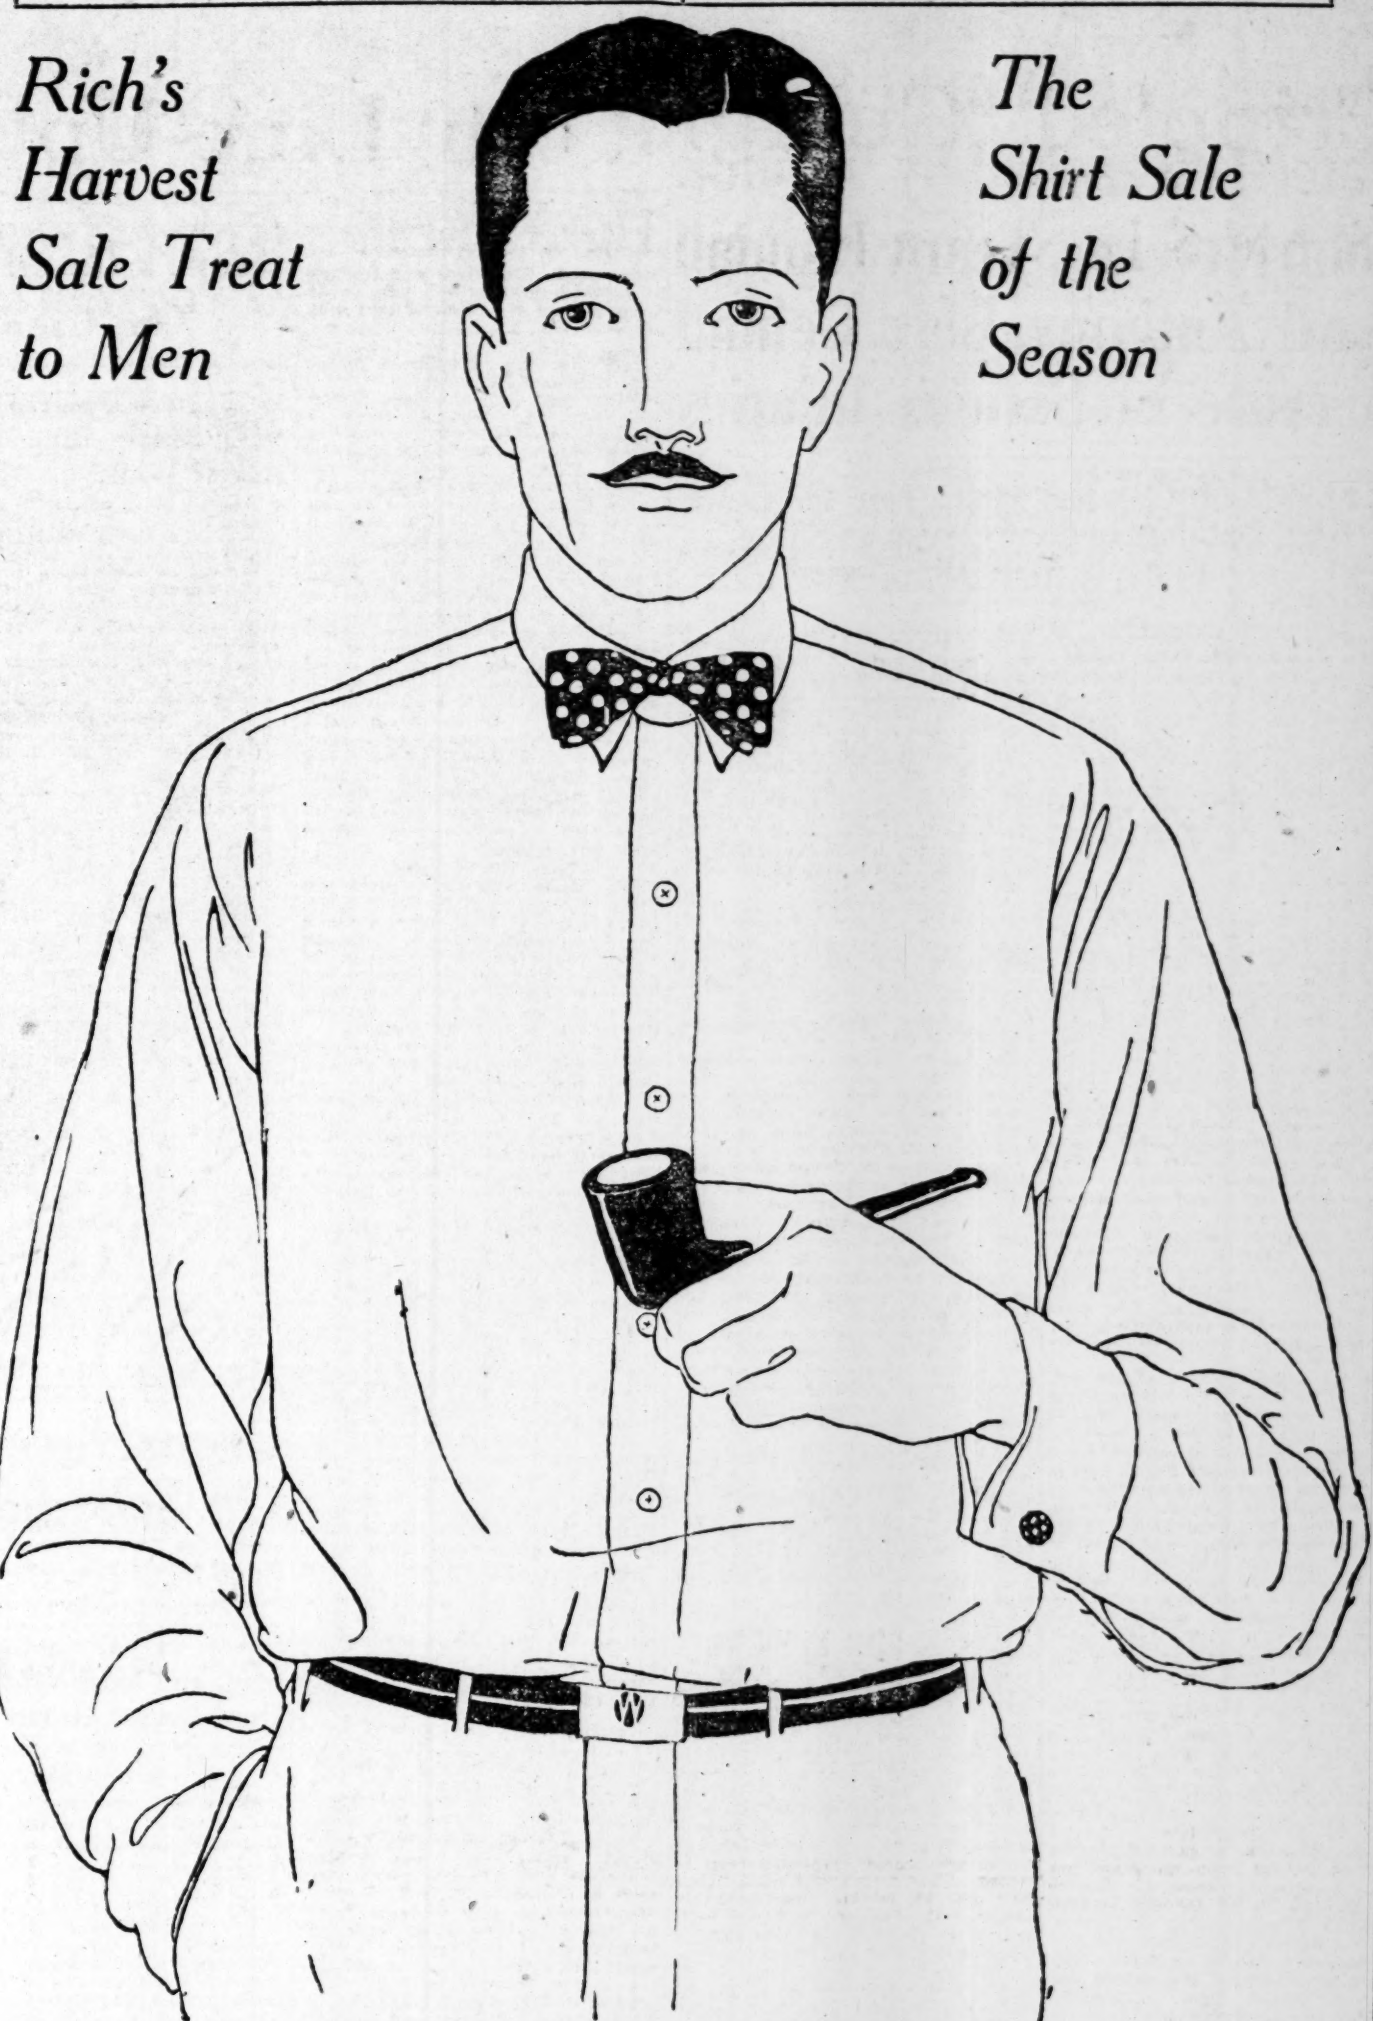

Sparta, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) James Clary, young son of H. D. Clary, of Culverton, in this county, who was run down several days ago by an automobile lumber truck, is much improved. Internal injuries feared by attending physicians did not develop, and he will soon be out and in school again.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray. Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge with soft luscious water and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—(adv.)

QUART OF WATER A DAY HELPS KIDNEYS

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then get fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—(adv.)

banks to enter the federal reserve system

J. H. Tregoe, of New York, secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Credit men advocated both proposals, while W. W. Orr, of New York, assistant secretary of the association, stressed the desire for par collection in his testimony.

Declaring banking was one of the functions belonging to the federal government, Mr. Tregoe said his association advocated the operation of the banking business under national law. There are too many banks, he said, and congress should enact a measure under which non-member banks would be denied the privileges of the federal reserve system. This would have the effect, he believed, of not only bringing many banks into that system but would also contribute to winding up the affairs of those not required.

Par Collection Urged.

Par collection of checks was urged by Mr. Tregoe as of the utmost importance to the business of the country. Checks, he said, have become currency and about 95 per cent of all business is conducted in that way.

Under the federal reserve system, he continued, par clearance has been reduced to an infinitesimal cost, which the banks, and not the customer, should stand. Unless par clearance is made general, he predicted, invoices soon would be made payable only in checks drawn upon banks subscribing to par collection.

The witness asserted the federal reserve board had accomplished more than even its warmest friends had hoped, and that if "properly supported and kept out of politics will keep the country out of panics." In 1920, he asserted, it had prevented appalling losses. He denied the deflation in that year had fallen more heavily on agriculture than on other lines of business.

"We are in a crisis," he said. "We cannot have the entire world out of order without feeling it. The business world is now struggling with high costs. That is our problem and we are trying to cut down costs."

Mr. Orr testified that unless the banks generally agreed to par collection, the natural result would be the transfer of balances by the smaller banks to the larger centers, with perhaps a return to something like the old practice of sending bills to be paid in New York drafts.

Edward Bains, a Philadelphia manufacturer, told the committee there was a feeling among the banks that the regulations under which they operated were unnecessarily irksome. He urged measures to influence national banks against surrendering their charters and operating under state laws.

Governor Crissinger, of the federal reserve board, responded to the testimony of the committee, submitted statistics on various phases of the work of the system from its organization to the close of the last fiscal year. During that period the federal reserve banks had paid into the treasury as a franchise fee, he said, $135,000,000 out of gross earnings of $22,920,000. Their expenses had been $153,000,000. To date, the buildings erected by federal banks had cost $83,000,000, which had been paid out of the surplus of the banks.

Saw Mrs. Stokes In Wallace Room, Says Negro Maid

New York, October 11.—Lillian Payne, negro, maid in the East Thirty-Fifth street apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, from July to December, 1917, and a visitor there, today testified at the trial of W. B. D. Stokes' divorce action against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, that she had seen Mrs. Stokes in the apartment in company with Wallace, who is named as co-respondent.

Mrs. Stokes, she said, came in with Wallace through a kitchenette entrance and accidentally came face to face with her. Then the pair, the witness asserted, went into a bedroom and did not emerge for the 15 minutes she remained in the apartment.

The next day, the witness declared in answering direct questions of Max Steuer, chief counsel for Mr. Stokes, she found two short gold colored hair pins and a few strands of red hair in a comb and brush on the dressing table.

A. A. Wallace, brother of Edgar T. Wallace, in a letter dated September 12 in Booneville which was sent to the law firm of Guggenheim, Untermeyer & Marshall and introduced into the record as an affidavit, expressed the belief that Mr. Stokes was "crazy." He said Stokes came to his home in September, 1920, describing himself as a writer of his country, and that after he had ordered Stokes from his house, Paul Waggoner, an oil salesman, came to his house and tried to get information corroborating "suspicions which were utterly groundless."

I have never met Mrs. Stokes and know Mr. Stokes only slightly, having only met him in New York, said Wallace in his letter. I am positive neither could have been in Booneville or Booneville.

Wallace also said that Waggoner had questioned negroes and others in his employ so persistently that one of Wallace's leaders struck him and put him off the premises.

Supreme Court Justice Wagner today granted an order in a show cause proceeding, directing that examinations in connection with the divorce action be held tomorrow and Saturday in Booneville and Booneville, Mo.

A. A. Wallace, Martha Wallace, Nannie Wallace, Wilbur Wallace, Louise Wallace, Nelson Leonard, Mrs. Arthur Wallace and Miss Louise Harman.

In petitioning for the order Mrs. Stokes directly charged that Mrs. Alice Mills and Catherine Kramer committed perjury when they testified that they had seen her 19 years ago in Booneville, Mo., in company with Edgar T. Wallace and Clarence McCormick.

The charge was supported by Isadore Shapiro of her counsel, who in a corroboratory affidavit, said he interviewed McCormick who denied he saw Mrs. Stokes 19 years ago and asserted he believed he had never seen her in his life.

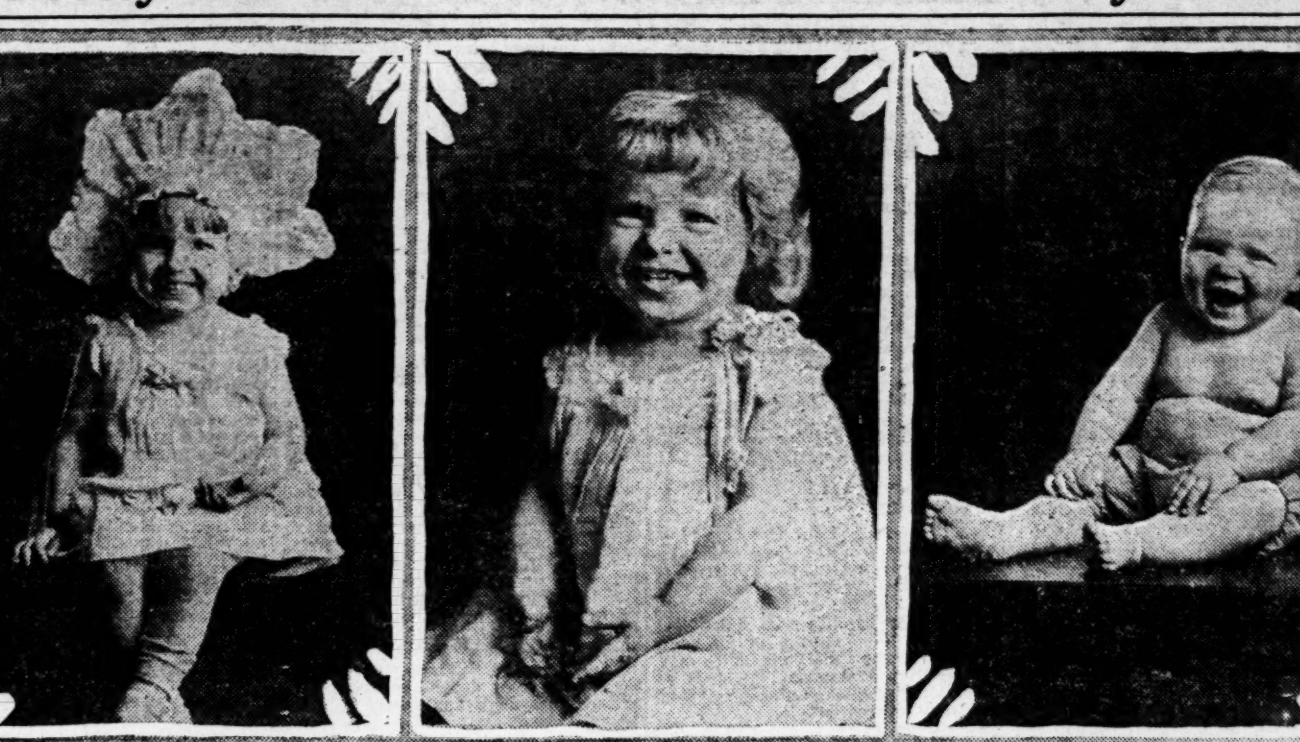

NORTH CAROLINA DEAN DIES FROM PARALYSIS

Richmond, Va., October 11.—Lucius Polk McGhee, dean of the University of North Carolina law school, died at a local hospital early today of paralysis. He was 55 years old and had been ill several weeks.

Dean McGhee was born in Person county, N. C. His mother was a daughter of U. S. Senator Badger, of North Carolina, and was descended from the Polk family of which President Polk was a member. He was widely known throughout the South, having been dean of the North Carolina law school for about 20 years.

He is survived by a brother, William Polk McGhee, of Denver, Colo., and a number of nieces and nephews. Burial will be in Raleigh.

Weldon Explains Views on Changes in Tax System

In appearing before the special tax commission appointed by Governor Walker to study tax problems of the state, Frank Weldon, secretary of the Georgia Taxpayers' league, stated that he was in favor of retaining the present ad valorem system of taxation and retaining the principle of tax equalization, with improvements in machinery for administration.

He supported the proposal to classify intangible property for state purposes, but would exempt this class of property from local taxes. He favored a graduated income tax, with the proviso that property tax be allowed against this as a credit and that net earnings or income should also be exempt from local taxation.

Favors Inheritance Tax.

He also favored retention of the inheritance tax, imposition of a small service tax, amendment of the law requiring that half the state's income go to public schools, adoption of an audit and budget system and limitation of the county tax rate to 15 mills, with an increase of the county-wide school rate limit from 5 mills to 8 or 10 mills.

In addressing the commission Mr. Weldon spoke, in part, of the Georgia's three most urgent requirements: Education, highways, and better care of the mentally afflicted.

The highways are being provided for, so far as the state is concerned, on the "pay-as-you-go" plan.

The remedy for the public school situation is largely in the control of the counties and school districts.

The higher institutions of learning and the state sanatorium must look to the state for money.

Conservative state officials have told me they believe the urgent needs could be covered by $2,000,000.

As business men you would spread that over two or three years, to get the best results. Assume that we need $2,000,000 more a year to "keep the wheels running."

We are told that there is no purpose in increasing the taxes of those who are already paying a fair share but the intention is to tax those who have not yet paid their share. That was the specific declaration made by the state officials.

Platform specifically admonished the general assembly to bring "hidden wealth" to the light.

In conclusion, after two years of intensive study of Georgia's tax system and the states of other states, he is already paying a fair share but the intention is to tax those who have not yet paid their share. That was the specific declaration made by the state officials.

SKIES WILL BE FAIR, STATES FORECASTER

With about the same temperature, moderately low, and fair skies, Friday's weather will be very similar to that of Thursday, according to C. F. von Herrmann, official weather prognosticator. He stated that practically no rain is reported anywhere, the only dampness being in the form of light showers in the west, caused by slight disturbances over southern Arizona and New Mexico and North Dakota. Light frost was reported at Macon Wednesday night, but speaking generally the temperatures remain low and unchanged.

Big Firms Are Employing Ambitious Students From The Southern Business College

Three Students Go to Splendid Positions After Only Three Months Courses in Graham-Pitmanic Short-hand.

The following students of the Southern Business College and Business University, have recently gone into splendid positions and are making good.

Miss Agnes Boyd, with the J. K. Orr Shoe Manufacturing Company; Miss Thelma Harris, with the National Security Company; Miss Grace Miller, with the Kinney Shoe Company; Miss Bertha Jaynes, with the Belle Isle Ford Dealers; Miss Elmer Jaques, with the Southern Bell Telephone Company; Nat Davidson and Bob Davidson, with two large manufacturing concerns at West Point, and Miss Lillian McCullough, with an important firm at West Point.

Just a few days after the West Point High school closed for its vacation period in May last, seven of its graduates came to Atlanta and enrolled at the Southern Business College for Commercial Courses.

It speaks well for the curriculum of that High School to say that three of those seven graduates completed the course in Graham-Pitman's Short-hand, and Touch Typewriting, at the Southern in just THREE MONTHS!

A. C. Briscoe, President Southern Shorthand & Business University, and one of Six Shorthand Instructors.

TIME, and are already engaged as stenographers by some of the large manufacturers and business concerns of West Point.

Just as it is important to those entering a professional life to be known as graduates of well-known, high-grade, literary colleges, so, also, it is important to those entering the commercial world to be known as graduates of a good Business School, such as the Southern Business College in Miami, Florida, and was given a position immediately.

In looking for a good school, it is important to examine and investigate. Visit every business school and see how each one is equipped; learn which systems are taught; the number of teachers employed; sit up the attendance of each school, which indicates its respective popularity; then call upon twenty-five or fifty of Atlanta's most prominent merchants and bankers, asking them to recommend to you a real good business school.

Address, A. C. Briscoe, president, Southern Shorthand & Business University, 111 Whitehall street, Atlanta, Ga. Both day and night classes.—(adv.)

Plenty of Work But Wood Finds Pay Hard to Get

BY RALPH T. JONES.

With investigation of the department of agriculture concluded, and the committee's verdict announced, so far the chief loser in the whole matter appears to be Pierce Wood, official stenographer for the hearing.

There now arises a doubt as to whether Mr. Wood can collect his pay from the state for his work in taking down and transcribing the evidence submitted during the fifteen-day hearing, and it is at least certain that he will have to wait the greater part of a year before he can get it.

The resolution calling for the investigation appropriated the sums of $500 to defray necessary expenses, including traveling expenses for members of the committee and their regular per diem, during the hearing, which they draw as members of the assembly. It is reported that the balance of this sum remaining in the treasury of this date is $8.00. And Mr. Wood's bill has not yet been rendered.

Likewise, when that bill is rendered, it probably will be for a sum greater than the entire $750 appropriation.

Mr. Wood's verbatim report of witnesses' testimony and the proceedings filled fifteen regulation size stenographer's note books. Based upon the average number of words on one of these books will contain, in shorthand, means that more than four million words were taken down.

The legal rate of pay for court stenographers is 20¢ per hundred words. Just figure out for yourself what that will come to.

The only way in which the bill can be paid, under the law, is by the passage of a new law.

GOVERNMENT WAR ON WEEVIL URGED

New York, October 11.—The supremacy of America as the leading cotton producing nation of the world is threatened by the ravages of the boll weevil which has been largely responsible for the destruction of between twenty and twenty-five per cent of the cotton crop this year, Edward E. Bartlett, Jr., president of the New York Cotton Exchange, declared in a statement issued tonight.

"The extermination of the boll weevil," he said, "in my opinion is one of the greatest problems that America has to solve. I believe that with an appropriation of a few million dollars, the government might organize a fight upon the weevil which in two or three years would exterminate the pest. Compared with the economic loss destruction by the weevil each year entails, the money which the government has appropriated so far to fight it is infinitesimal."

Derby's Statement.

"The statement by Lord Derby," he continued, "that Great Britain would no longer depend upon the United States for its cotton, but would get all its supplies from within the empire, emphasizes a situation which I have repeatedly called attention to. It is a matter of regret that foreign nations should be quicker to appreciate this situation and take advantage of it than our own government."

"This year approximately 20 to 25 per cent of the American cotton crop has been destroyed by boll weevil. Drought also has been a contributing factor, but the greatest damage has been done by the weevil. As a result of the short crop prices have risen to the thirty cent level, and there is a danger of the worst winter crop of cotton since 1924. The high prices for cotton, due to the destruction of so large a part of the crop, places a burden on everyone."

Millions Wasted.

"On one hand, millions of dollars are wasted in the planting and cultivation of acres which the weevil destroys; and, on the other hand, the resulting high prices for cotton products due to the short crop takes millions of dollars out of the pockets of the consumers of cotton. Millions of dollars that might be saved are expended annually by the public due to higher prices of cotton as a result of the ravages of the boll weevil."

"The annual destruction of so large a part of the cotton crop is disheartening to the farmers of the south, many of whom have their entire crops wiped out by the deadly weevil. The fact that other farmers, who are to the location of their acreage, escape the pest and secure higher prices for their cotton than those who are not, is no consolation to the farmer who sees his entire investment in cotton wiped out by the weevil."

COLONS POISONING CLOUDS THE MIND

Makes You Nervous, Irritable and Blue.

You are a wise man or woman if you understand your colon and keep it in perfect working order. Health, happiness, vigor and long life are the gifts which an active colon gives you—and a lazy colon takes away.

Your colon is the five feet of your digestive canal. It is your sewerage system; your garbage can, so to speak. Keep it clean, and you are well and happy; let it stagnate and it will distill the poisons of decay, fermentation (gas) and putrefaction into your blood; poisoning your brain and nerves so that you are restless, irritable and blue; poisoning your heart so that you are weak, listless and lazy; poisoning your lungs so that your breath is heavy or foul; poisoning your stomach and digestive organs so that you are bloated, belching and uncomfortable with gas pains; poisoning your blood so that your skin looks yellow, sallow and unhealthy; poisoning every part and organ of your body, through your blood, making you look and feel old and ugly long before your time; making your joints and your back stiff and rheumatic; your eyes dull and your brain sluggish.

By the perfect law of Nature, your colon should empty itself three times a day—within an hour after eating. Does your colon work that well? If not, it has lost its tone. What do we mean by tone? Your colon is a hollow muscle. Its walls are made up of long, muscle fibres or muscle cells, which, by their contraction,

Tax Commission Asks for Views Of Legislators

Following conclusion of scheduled public hearings in Atlanta of the special tax commission, Governor Walker announced Thursday night that the commission would reconvene here on October 23, and at that time wished to hear from authors of different tax bills, introduced during the last session of the legislature.

Immediately after hearing from these men, the commission will seek to ascertain what are the actual financial needs of the state to properly care for all institutions and departments and will then go into extensive sessions to draft its report and recommendations. These recommendations will be submitted to the general assembly when it convenes for the extraordinary session on November 7 to discuss the tax problem and the question of free school books.

Citizens Give Views.

At the final Atlanta hearing, held Thursday morning, a number of prominent citizens appeared and gave their views on taxation to the commission. Among these were: R. J. Davidson, of F. J. Cole & Sons; Martin Amorus, financier, capitalist and dirt farmer of Marietta; Charles J. Haden, Atlanta capitalist; Dr. E. H. Johnson, professor of economics and taxation at Emory university; Dr. R. Buchanan, representative of the Retail Grocers' association of Georgia, now in convention in Atlanta; Thomas K. Glenn, president of the Lowry Bank & Trust Company of Georgia; and W. C. Martin, president of the Bank of Dalton and the largest land owner in Whitfield county.

In general, the arguments advanced in defense of the present system of ad valorem taxation coupled with an appeal for legislation which will provide adequate machinery for enforcement of the present tax laws. Practically all known forms of taxation were touched on.

Speaking, as he announced, in the interest of the working people generally, Mr. Davidson urged drastic laws to put loan sharks and credit mercantile establishments out of business. He stated that this class of institution preyed upon the working people and was a serious menace to the industrial development of the state and the happiness and welfare of the people generally.

System Called Clumsy.

Mr. Haden, in opening his speech, stated that the money paid in taxes was divided, 37c on each dollar going to the state, and 63c to the county. He declared that the system of county finances in general use over the state was out-of-date, clumsy and extremely wasteful.

As an instance, he declared that the counties of Georgia, which are supposed to be a revenue measure, never intended to be a revenue measure. Every adult should be required by law to register, and a check made by the ordinary of their county. Thus, he believed, thousands of persons who pay no taxes would be discovered.

While admitting that he has no special objection to an income tax, Mr. Amorus pointed out that it has been the cause of the work of the salaried men that the big office buildings in Atlanta have been built, and urged that the salaried man pays an indirect tax to the state. He said that the man for office buildings by their constructive work, that they indirectly pay in rent of dwellings and apartments, and through the payment of taxes. He said that in the last analysis the consumer pays all taxes and it is the salaried man who is the consumer.

Federal Revenue.

Dr. Johnson stated that the federal government collects twice the revenue in Georgia from its inheritance tax than the state does, although the federal tax exempts all estate less than $50,000 while the state tax applies to all estates of $20,000 or more. He said this was a good example of the trouble in Georgia, inefficient administration of the tax laws.

The new tobacco tax, said Dr. Johnson, promises to prove one of the most inequitable laws ever enacted, because there is provided no machinery for its enforcement. The same, he asserted, is true of the occupation taxes. He advocated a centralized system of tax collection and suggested that the legislature refused to create a new $8,000 position, although such a position would result in large increases in tax collection.

He said that personally he favored an income tax and the classification of property for taxation, but that of more importance than these, is adequate machinery for the collection of taxes.

Mr. Bachman argued that the chief fault in Georgia's tax methods, is not the system but the administration of present laws. He advocated no heavier taxes, but said if any were absolutely essential, he favored a general sales tax applicable alike to every interest and industry. He admitted, however, that an army of employees would be required to enforce a sales tax and that it would operate to discriminate against the small and injure all classes of Georgia business.

Thomas K. Glenn was strongly opposed to the income tax idea. He said that the United States was now five years behind in its collection of income taxes, that it spends $24,000,000 annually in administration of this tax and that it is poisoning the minds of the people against the government through methods of enforcement.

Mr. Martin, of Whitfield county, was heard with exceptional interest by the commission because of his financial prominence and large land holdings. He said that it would be folly to repeal the tax equalization law and urge, on the contrary, that this law should be strengthened as a step in direction of a proper, fair and impartial administration of the revenue system. The fault with this system, he said, was in itself, but in its administration, he said.

Comptroller General Wright issued a statement Thursday in which he said he had been misunderstood in his reference to the "smoking spree" of the legislature. He denied saying that this spree during the administration of Governor John M. Slaton, but said it was after the expiration of his term that the legislature began making appropriations in excess of revenue.

NEGROES SENTENCED TO HANG FOR MURDER

Columbus, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Porter and Lowndes, Negroes, were this morning sentenced to hang after being found guilty of first degree murder in Russell circuit court at Seale, Ala., according to reports from that city.

The negroes, cousins, were convicted of murder in connection with the killing of Henry Ingram and his wife, aged negroes, near Marvin, on August 14. Ingram was shot four or five times and his wife was shot several times and her almost lifeless body strangled and cut with knives.

Judge J. S. Williams presided over the court and Circuit Solicitor T. C. Patterson prosecuted the McRands for the state.

BANDITS BLOW UP TRAIN IN TUNNEL

Ore, Redding and Yreka, Cal., had been notified of the holdup and shooting and a hurried call was sent out for volunteers to form a posse to search for the bandits.

Southern Pacific officials rushed to the scene and an offer of $2,500 reward for information directly leading to the arrest and conviction of any of the robbers was made at once.

No Passengers Molested.

No passengers were molested by the bandits or injured by the explosion, as far as could be learned tonight.

The extent of the damage to the train has not yet been determined. No damage was done to other cars of the train with the exception of the baggage car, in which windows and doors were broken by the explosion in the mail car nearby.

The robbery and slayings are believed to have been the result of one of the most carefully laid plots in the history of western railroading.

POSSE ON TRAIL OF BANDITS.

San Francisco, Cal., October 11.—Three members of the crew of Southern Pacific train No. 13, Portland to San Francisco, were shot and killed, and the mail car on the train was blown up by bandits who halted the train near the entrance of a tunnel near the Oregon-California line today.

A posse from Yreka, Cal., under Sheriff Calkins, of Siskiyou county, went in pursuit of the bandits. The train came to a jarring stop after the locomotive and mail car had entered the tunnel. An explosion was then heard. Conductor Marratt and brakeman C. O. Johnson proceeded to the head of the train, where they found the bodies of the three men shot through the chest and died within a few minutes. The bandits fled in the conductor advanced. He continued his search for the bandits. Engineer S. L. Bates on the ground, one side of the engine with a bullet through his head. On the other side he found the body of Fireman Song, also with a bullet through his head.

The mail car was wrecked and all of the passengers were injured. The mail car was set on fire by the explosion, but was quickly extinguished. Calls for help were sent to Yreka and to other points. A wrecking crew cleared the track a few hours after the holdup.

place, lacerated arm and slight bruises.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clegg, of 190 East Pine street, dislocated shoulder and internal injuries. A wrecking crew cleared the track a few hours after the holdup.

Sam D. Hewlett and daughter, Miss Florence, 87 E. Fourteenth street, bruised and scratched.

Miss Estelle Dorner, of 195 East Pine street, bruises and lacerations. Dr. Z. H. Walton, Dentur street, badly bruised.

Robert L. Sibley, 28 Houston street, serious injuries about body.

THREE WOMEN INJURED BY SCHWAB'S MACHINE.

Three women were hurt seriously when the automobile in which they were returning from a funeral was struck and run over by the sedan of Richard M. Schwab, of 630 Peachtree street, at the corner of Piedmont avenue and Pine street. Police were investigating the case Thursday night.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clegg, of 190 East Pine street, was dislocated shoulder and internal injuries.

Mrs. Lytle D. Burns, of 64 Druid place, who was confined to her home with a lacerated arm and slight bruises.

Miss Estelle Dorner, of 195 East Pine street, who is confined to her home with bruises and lacerations.

The touring car driven by Mrs. Burns was crossing Piedmont eastward on Pine street when it collided with Schwab's sedan, traveling north on Piedmont, causing it to career completely over against the curb, throwing the three women out.

Neither Mr. Schwab nor his wife, who was with him, was hurt and his car was not damaged.

The Burns car was returning from the funeral of Mrs. Clifford Gann, of 194 East Pine street.

Motorcycle Officer L. E. Shumate was investigating the case Thursday night but no charges had been preferred.

THREE WOMEN ARE HURT AS CAR LEAVES BRIDGE.

The automobile in which Mrs. Hubert L. Culberson, Mrs. Keith Culberson, Miss Marjorie Culberson and Carolyn Culberson were riding plunged over a bridge over the A. B. & A. railway tracks, on the Ben Hill road between Adamsville and Utoy Springs, about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Culberson, who was driving the machine, lost control of the steering wheel as the automobile was crossing the bridge, causing it to swerve against the railing which crumpled at the impact. The machine plunged to the railroad tracks 30 feet below and was dashed.

The escape of all occupants from death is regarded as miraculous. Mrs. Culberson, who was on the rear seat with her infant daughter, told police that she failed to see in the darkness an automobile parked without any lights on the side of the street until he was within a few feet of it.

Miss Miller's face was badly lacerated and she will probably lose her left eye, physicians stated. Miss McDowell suffered only slight injuries about the head.

Sibley and Walton hurt. Colonel Robert L. Sibley, retired attorney living at 28 Houston street, and Dr. Z. H. Walton, retired physician of Dentur street, Thursday received Wednesday afternoon when knocked down by an automobile driven by Dr. M. W. Mannahan, whose office is in the Grand building.

The accident occurred at Forsyth and Walton streets. Colonel Sibley and Dr. Walton were crossing Forsyth at Walton street while Dr. Mannahan was turning into Forsyth from Walton street, it is said.

Southern Barbecue Honors Golfers at Durand's Farm

The golf committee of the Brookhaven country club entertained at an old-fashioned, southern barbecue Thursday evening in honor of the visiting golfers who are attending the tournament this week.

The barbecue was given at Durand's farm, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Williams, near Decatur. The affair was entirely alfresco supper being served out of doors at the barbecue pit, which is one of the interesting features of the farm. After supper dancing was the form of entertainment. The guests danced in the rustic summer house.

The official hosts of the occasion was Mrs. Charles M. Sciple, chairman of entertainment. She was assisted by Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, Mrs. Lee Giblin, Mrs. Charles Cornell and Mrs. T. T. Williams. Mrs. Lowndes is chairman of transportation, who furnished means by which the guests motored to the barbecue. Mrs. T. T. Williams is woman's chairman of the golf committee.

Fifty guests were entertained at the barbecue, which was one of the most interesting social attentions paid the visiting golfers.

Mrs. Castle Will Wear Gowns of Wonderful Beauty

Costumes in bewildering array, ranging from the dashing Spanish effect for the Argentine tango to the most attractive features of the appearance of Irene Castle who dances Friday night at the Atlanta Auditorium. The dancer carries a dozen changes of costume, it is said, gowns and headdresses and silken hose from the most exclusive ateliers of Paris and New York, with stage settings and light effects which display them to the best advantage. To the women in the audience, at least, the fashion display will form no small part of the evening's entertainment.

Miss Castle's costumes for the most part, are not designed for the stage, but are such as might be worn in ballroom or garden party, just as her dances are those suitable for the home or club rather than the ballet, so it is expected that many hints may be picked up, both as to dance steps and fashions.

Already the sale of seats at the Cable Piano company store indicates that society will turn out en masse to see Miss Castle and her dancing partner, William Reardon, who shared her success in her recent London season. There is an added attraction in the music of Duke Yellman's orchestra, declared to be one of the best exponents of unique syncopation and odd musical effects in the country.

Gershon-Sterne Wedding Is Beautiful Home Affair

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Gershon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gershon, and Lee M. Sterne, of Albany, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on West Fourteenth street Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock by Rabbi David Marx.

The bay window of the spacious hall, banked with palms, ferns and smilax, combined with baskets of white chrysanthemums and candelabra holding white tapers, formed a lovely setting for the wedding party.

The ushers, who entered first, were Sidney Gershon, brother of the bride, and Henry Rosenbaum, cousin of the bride.

Next came Miss Rose Gershon, sister of the bride, her only attendant. She wore a gown of peach-colored chiffon beaded in rhinestones and her bouquet was an exquisite shower of pink roses, valley lilies and violets.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride entered with her father, George Gershon, where they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Lionel Sterne, who acted as best man. Her wedding gown was a beautiful model of white satin crepe beaded in seed pearls. She wore a tulle veil arranged in Spanish effect and held in place by a delicate band of orange blossoms. Her flowers were a shower of gorgeous bride's roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. The entire house was decorated with smilax, ferns and fall flowers. The beautiful wedding cake crowned the bride's table.

Receiving Party.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Gershon and the bridal party were Sigmund Sterne, father of the groom, Sidney Sterne, Miss Dorothea Sterne, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson, all of Albany, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Gershon, and Miss Lillian Loeb, of Montgomery.

Mrs. George Gershon wore a handsome gown of black georgette beaded in rhinestones. Her corsage was of Parma violets.

Miss Dorothea Sterne's gown was rose color moire.

Mrs. Robinson wore a coral beaded georgette.

Mrs. Bert Fox was lovely in lipstick red georgette.

Miss Lillian Loeb wore a charming model of apricot crepe with a corsage of roses and valley lilies.

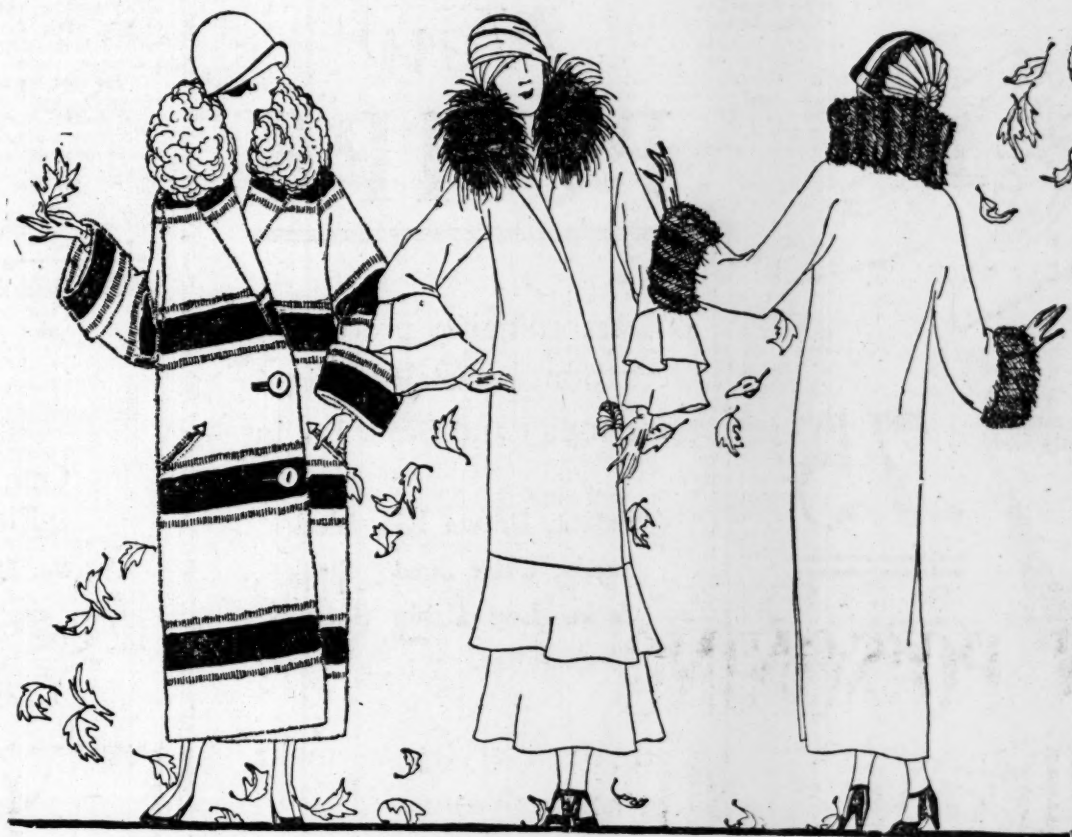

Mrs. Harry Gershon's gown was coral chiffon, beaded in pearls. She wore a corsage of orchids and valley lilies.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sterne left for a trip to Washington and New York. On their return they will reside in Albany, Ga.

Business Women Will Meet Sunday.

The Business Women's League of the Second Baptist church will meet Sunday, October 14, at 3:30 o'clock, in the main Sunday school room of the church.

This meeting will mark the tenth anniversary of the league and is the first meeting of the fall. Dr. John F. Purser will make a short address.

Mrs. George E. Scott, mother of the hostess, assisted in entertaining. Miss Chancellor was gown in robin's egg blue Canton crepe trimmed with platinum fur and worn with a panne velvet hat to match.

Miss Scott was gown in blue Georgette over flesh chiffon. Invited to meet the honor guest were Misses Mary Lowery, of Frederickburg, Va.; Martha Tomlinson, Emma Laura and Elizabeth Wesley, Lella Mae Jenkins, Fay McCowan, Ruth Cruesell, Estelle Elsdorfer, Marion Hull, Elizabeth Richardson, Madeline Freeman, Heywood Dudley, Franklin Chalmers, LeRoy Stevens, Elwyn Tomlinson, Frank Reall and Clement Evans.

Initial Meeting P. T. A. Council Is Held Thursday

A large and representative group of mothers and teachers attended the initial meeting of the Atlanta Parent-Teacher council in the assembly room of the Carnegie library Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. E. D. McDonald, president, presided at the meeting and in a stirring address urged upon the mothers the necessity for surrounding their children with the proper home atmosphere, and keeping in touch with what the teachers are doing for their children, stimulating the child's interest in this work.

Miss Mary Postell, assistant superintendent of the elementary and kindergarten departments of the Atlanta public schools, spoke on the school work of the three lower grades, and stressed the continued cooperation between the principals and teachers and teachers and mothers.

Professor Willis A. Sutton, impressed upon his hearers the importance of the motto, "Better Teaching, Better Studying." He extended an invitation to the presidents of the council to participate in the automobile tour of the new school buildings which will take place October 17.

Short talks were made by Miss Tommie Dora Barker and Miss Mary Lucas, librarians. They announced a series of talks to be given preceding National Book week, November 12-19, which will be of interest to mothers in encouraging their children to read good books.

Mrs. McDonald announced the following appointments: Mrs. J. C. Malone, extension chairman; Mrs. J. C. Malone, extension chairman; Mrs. M. D. Therrell, resolutions; Mrs. N. D. Ellison, press chairman.

Milledgeville Pioneer Woman Tells of Sidney Lanier's Youth

Miss Mamie Louise Pitts, principal of State street school, and one of the notable educators connected with the public school system of Atlanta, spent the summer in Milledgeville, where she taught in the summer school of the G. N. L. and while there she met Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Robson, one of the pioneer women of the state who went to school with Sidney Lanier, the beloved poet-laureate of Georgia.

In the following interesting little sketch Miss Pitts tells of Mrs. Robson's friendship with this distinguished Georgian, when he was a boy.

Just a block from the governor's mansion in historic Milledgeville, in a cheery bungalow peeping up from crepe myrtle, parigolds and sunnias, lives Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Robson. Here I found her one summer morning sitting on her cool veranda overlooking the broad, greenward that stretches in front of the Georgia State College for Women.

Eighty summers have come and gone in the life of Mrs. Robson, but they have not been able to rub out the youthful contour of her cheeks, the twinkle in her eyes and the dainty point of her lips, all of which she used to advantage when she roled back the years and I glimpsed her with the friends of her youth.

"Oh, yes," she replied to a question. "I knew Sidney Lanier well. He went to school at Oglethorpe when my father, Robert Clay Smith, was a professor there. Sidney was careless of his personal appearance and effected eccentricities. Let me correct these faults in later years."

"He played divinely on the flute, and I often accompanied him. But he was a most impudent fellow," she laughed.

"What did he do?" I eagerly asked. "It was like this: One day he met me on my way to school and asked to walk with me, a thrilling invitation in those quiet days. I promptly refused, whereupon he said, 'Well, I am going anyway, and he did.' When we got to the door I told him that I would have to tell my father, as he had forbidden me to walk with boys, and I would get a severe scolding. In those far-away days disobedience always called for a confession," she explained.

"But you understand," said the impudent Sidney, "I made a bet that I would walk to school with you, and I have won."

"At supper that night my father asked me if anything unusual had happened. Yes, father, Sidney Lanier walked home with me, I replied with a tremor.

"He told me about it," was all the comment, and the dreaded scolding never materialized.

"Sidney did not like flowers," continued Mrs. Robson. "I recall one evening at a reception at the 'mansion,' when Sidney carried a bouquet, as was the custom, when we promenade. He grew so tired that he said 'Let me throw these out the window,' and out the window they went."

"When girls were visiting us Sidney and his friends would serenade them. A tray was always passed out to these hungry boys. Once we tied a cake to a spool of thread and lowered it out the window.

"The Oglethorpe boys delighted to play pranks on the 'old pros,' as they called them, when out of hearing distance. It was a fine tribute to Sidney Lanier to be able to control these mischievous classmates when he became tutor at the college after his graduation."

"I shall never forget Sidney's wedding, a big church affair. The bride lost her wedding ring, as she passed down the aisle, and the rest of one of the bridesmaids caught fire.

Mrs. Robson remembers the visits of Mrs. Wilson to her brother, Dr. Woodrow, a professor at Oglethorpe. "I was very fond of the small boy, who always accompanied his mother," said Mrs. Robson. "He was a quiet, lovable child. Little did I think he was destined to be our great war president."

The president spoke of some features of the coming state conference at Rome, as did also Mrs. Otley. The club will be represented by Mrs. Gordon Burnett and Mrs. W. R. Daschell.

Mrs. Morse called attention to fire protection work and the need of better local protection. Mrs. Morse, Hyman and Mrs. Murphy were appointed a committee to investigate the matter.

Dr. Alice Moses, state director of child hygiene, spoke on the need of better care for the health of infants, particularly in rural districts, and discussed an appropriation to insure a more extensive health program and also take advantage of federal aid.

At the next meeting the lessons on parliamentary law by Mrs. Brownell will be resumed.

Mrs. Coolidge Named Honorary President Of Girl Scouts

The naming of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge as national honorary president of the Girl Scouts and the gift of the model home erected in Washington at a cost of $14,000 by the National Federation of Women's Clubs to the Girl Scouts, were the outstanding events of the meeting of the executive council of Girl Scout workers at headquarters in New York last week.

On the motion of Mrs. Albert Thornton, of Atlanta, national vice president, the resignation of Mrs. Warren G. Harding was accepted with regret. Mrs. Harding's letter of resignation addressed to the president was as follows:

"My dear Mrs. Hoover: "In am tending herewith my resignation as honorary president of the Girl Scouts. In doing so I am severing one of the most delightful associations that has been my privilege in this work. My more intimate relations to it as honorary president have more than confirmed my feeling that it is one of the finest instruments for encouraging the development of a high type of American womanhood."

"In withdrawing from the position I have held with so much satisfaction at least to myself, I desire to record my fullest conviction of the usefulness of the organization and of my best wishes for its long and successful future."

(Signed) "FLORENCE KLING HARDING." The national executive council of Girl Scouts consists of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, honorary president; Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. William Howard Taft, Mrs. Warren G. Harding, honorary vice presidents, and Mrs. Juliette Low, founder. The active officers are Mrs. Herbert Hoover, president; Mrs. Arthur O. Choate, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, Mrs. William H. Hoffman, Mrs. M. E. Olmstead, vice presidents; Mrs. Everitt Macy, chairman executive board; Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, treasurer, and Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, director.

Stressing the fact that the home is fundamental of all English institutions, the National Federation of Women's Clubs made a gift of the model home built in Washington during the Better Home week to the Girl Scouts, commemorating the fact that Girl Scouts, perhaps more than any other organization, stands not only for citizenship but for home makers. The Rockefeller Foundation has offered scouts the money for purchasing suitable site for the home, which is a replica of the John Howard Payne home at Easthampton modernized by a noted architect.

Music Lovers Are Urged To Buy Tickets To Music Club Concerts

With the season sale of tickets to the Music club's concert drawing to a close on Saturday night at the Cable Piano company, only two days remain for music lovers to secure reservations for the five concerts of the Music club series which are expected to establish a new record for brilliant artistry and magnificent music in Atlanta.

So unusual is the opportunity afforded the people of Atlanta to hear artists who are acknowledged to be the greatest exponents of their various mediums in the concert world of the present day that the occasion has drawn from a group of Atlanta's leading musical patrons a special statement urging every person who is interested in the cultural arts and Atlanta's position as a musical center to secure season tickets immediately.

This group is composed of Colonel Lawson Peel, president of the Atlanta Music Festival association; C. E. Bidwell, William M. Brownlee, Robert M. Parker, Clark Howell and others interested in the city's musical position. The statement says:

"We cannot allow the season seat sale of the Atlanta Music club's concert to come to a close before calling public attention to the unusual opportunity which it affords the people of this city to hear some of the most notable artists in the world of music. The five attractions of the Music club series to be given at the Auditorium form in themselves one of the greatest combinations ever presented here."

"No person who keeps in close touch with musical matters in New York and other world centers of music will fail to hear all five of these without urging on our part; for they will readily appreciate the remarkable series which has been arranged. But to those who do not follow musical happenings so closely, we want to say that the five concerts to be given in Atlanta by the Atlanta Music club represent the outstanding sensations of the New York and European concert stages, each one having an appeal both to the musically initiated and to the amateur concertgoer, as well.

"There is another side to the question which we wish especially to stress. The women of the Atlanta Music club have for eight years brought concerts to Atlanta in order to provide cultural advantages for our people and educational opportunities for our students of music. They have done this year after year with no financial backing and at the cost of endless effort, worry and personal discomfort.

"The people of Atlanta, in turn, owe these women of the club an unbounded appreciation and support. The business interests of the city should feel a personal debt to them for the civic work which they are doing and for the favorable advertising which they are bringing to this city in helping to make it the musical center of the south. Their work is strictly civic in nature, carried on for the good of the community and may be counted as one of our real assets.

"To those business men who have the civic interest of the city at heart we wish to say that the support accorded the present season ticket sale has been disappointing. Unless the final days bring a greatly augmented demand, the women of the club will be faced with the failure of their efforts and the unending worry which such a situation entails.

"Atlanta must not let them fail. They must not allow a situation to develop this fall which may result in the discontinuance of concert work by the club in the future. And the way to prevent this is for every man who is really interested in Atlanta's good to go immediately to the Cable Piano company and reserve two season tickets before Saturday night."

The artists to be presented by the Music club series include: Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini, Ignace Paderewski, Louis Gravier, Erika Morini and the Ukrainian chorus. Of these, Paderewski and the chorus have been heard here before and there has

Mr. and Mrs. McNeel Give Dinner Party.

Marietta, Ga., October 11.—Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McNeel gave a beautiful dinner party to Lieutenant Fred Morris, Jr., on Tuesday evening. The elegantly appointed table had as its central adornment a flagstone silver basket filled with exquisite pink and yellow roses.

THE A. E. LITTLE SHOE

The New Shoe for Women

IT IS NO longer necessary to sacrifice appearance and style for real foot comfort—not since the advent of THE A. E. LITTLE SHOE. In the designing of this "new kind of a shoe," orthopedic surgeons first produced the ideal last for correcting foot troubles, embodying every essential detail that experience proved wise. A. E. Little designers then fashioned this last into both high and low models—in both regular and sport styles and THE A. E. LITTLE SHOE we are now showing is the result. If you think of this shoe only in terms of comfort, you are certain to under-estimate its smartness. If you imagine it in terms of style, you are sure to under-estimate its comfort. The only outward sign of its scientific inward construction is the extremely slender shank of the sole and the stitching through its inner sole. This stitching is only one of the many secrets of construction of THE A. E. LITTLE Shoe.

Come in tomorrow—examine the many features of this shoe—let us fit you with the model best suited to your requirements. Your visit will prove the first step on a long journey of absolute foot comfort.

Sorosis Farms is really a plantation of large acreage. In the West it would be called a ranch. It represents the human side of a large business and means more to every one connected with the Sorosis Organization than can be expressed in words. Sorosis Farms has five departments under competent managers—Crop cultivation, Cattle, Sheep, Swine and Poultry. It is part of the A. E. Little Co.

You Are Cordially Invited to Visit the EXHIBIT of SHEEP from the Sorosis Farms Marblehead, Mass. At the Southeastern Fair

The Sheep Department at Sorosis Farms is founded upon the finest blood ever brought to this country. Here are found Hampshires, Shropshires, Cheviots, Dorset Horns and Southdowns, all of the fullest blood in the care and development of which is taken special pride and intense interest. You are invited to come out and see the splendid prize-winning specimens of Sorosis sheep now on exhibit at the Southeastern Fair.

Woman's Club Gives Luncheon to Advertising Family

The luncheon given in honor of the advertising family of the Atlanta Woman's club book Wednesday by the home economics department of the club, was one of the most unique affairs ever enjoyed at the clubhouse. Assembled around a large banquet table were more than a hundred men and women. Those who were not advertisers came to honor the merchants, who had so loyally co-operated with the home economics department, under the able leadership of Mrs. J. A. Carlisle.

In a gracious way Mrs. Carlisle presided, first presenting Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Woman's club, who welcomed the audience when she came to the McDougald Construction company and finding that representative absent, remarked: "He is not here, but we will continue to cross his bridges."

As the guests were introduced each spoke many words of praise and appreciation of the splendid work the club was sponsoring through the home economics department. George West, of the West Lumber company, emphasized the fact that this club book with its contents was a testimonial to the character of service the Atlanta Woman's club was doing for the city.

Mrs. Norman Sharp spoke of her appreciation of the page in the book dedicated to her and to the work she had accomplished in the leadership of the establishment of the new municipal curb market.

Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, commented on the value of the book and in her attractive way urged every housekeeper to have one. Mrs. W. F. Melton welcomed the guests with an original poem to the advertising family, which was quite unique.

Mr. Henard, of the Henard Mayonnaise company, expressed much gratitude for the splendid endorsement the Woman's club had given his new product. Mr. Hicks, of Sterch's Furniture company, stated that when he was approached by a member of the committee he was not satisfied with one page, but he was given his new product.

Mrs. Newton Wing, Mrs. J. M. Manry, Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Mrs. John K. Hornady and several others responded with words of appreciation of the splendid achievement of the department in the placing of the book in the hands of the housekeepers over the country.

Up to the present time approximately 4,000 books have been sold.

Delicious and cosmo beautifully arranged in French baskets formed the decorations for the luncheon tables, and the banquet hall was attractively adorned with autumn leaves of red and gold.

Following the interesting talks by the officers and guests, Mrs. Blackburn gave a reading.

In the afternoon following the luncheon department was held when Mrs. Murray Hubbard made an interesting address on "Junior Thrift Insurance," and B. M. Boykin also spoke along the line of thrift and insurance.

Mrs. J. R. Bachman, chairman of luncheon a meeting of the home economics department.

The Constitution's Patterns

4-535 KNICKERS 4221 4248
A SMART DRESS STYLE FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

4-535. Dated foulard is here shown. The model is one that lends itself well to wash materials, to wool rep and jersey weaves. Woolen crepe would also be nice for this style.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 12-year size requires 4 yards of 32-inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

AN UP-TO-DATE COSTUME. 3006-4221. Knicker and bloomers suits appeal to the active girl as much as to "grown ups." This model is ever so serviceable and pleasing. It may be worn with or without a skirt. Serge, flannel, jersey cloth and other knitted materials, as well as linen, khaki and gingham are good for its development.

The blouse pattern 3956 is cut in 7 sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. The knicker pattern 4221 is cut in 5 sizes: 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. To make the costume for a 14-year size will require 5 yards of 32-inch material.

Two separate patterns mailed to prizes, announced that the attendance at the home of Miss Marion Couch, on prize was won by Mrs. Ernest Covington, and the discovery contest prize went to Mrs. F. Nadele. These prizes will be awarded at each meeting, once a month. Mrs. T. G. Delph reported that 135 women were attending the vocational classes at the club.

Miss Couch Hostess To O. B. X. Members. The members of the O. B. X. society of Washington sentary were entertained Thursday afternoon.

St. Mark Women Will Entertain This Afternoon

Circle No. 7 of St. Mark's Methodist church, Mrs. Spencer R. Atkinson, chairman, will give an entertainment at the church house this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Delicious cakes, candies and other delicacies will be on sale, also handmade fancy articles and novelties suitable for Christmas gifts. In addition to these attractions there will be a splendid program of music and recitations. A small freewill offering will be taken at the door.

Mrs. Jefferson Fenn has charge of the program. The public is cordially invited to attend and help the members of Circle No. 7 in their splendid work.

The HOUSEHOLD

Edited by Anna Hittenthouse

WHEN THERE ARE TWO WAIS. In the making of the most useful dishes there are two different methods of procedure. Each method has its advocates, but in almost every case there is a best method, though sometimes the decision of the best method has not been possible through simple kitchen and dining room testing, but depends on scientific study.

Brown Sauce. In making brown sauce there are two methods. One rule says to "brown two tablespoons of butter, without burning, and cook in this a slice of onion, carrot and parsley, if desired. Let these brown in the fat. Then pour in the stock, and stir until the flour turns a reddish brown, then add a cup of beef broth or white stock.

When there is the old question of boiling potatoes with or without their skins on. The first method is of course, the more economical. Then, too, it is generally agreed that valuable nutrients are scrapped or pared off with the skin. On the other hand, it is often inconvenient to peel steaming-hot potatoes just when dinner is being taken up. Hired cooks almost always prefer to pare them before cooking, even though it means more actual work and darkens the fingers. By way of compromise, you should cook the potatoes in their skins, and then peel them when they are cold.

and cook until smooth and then strain. This is perhaps the oldest method. The other method consists of first browning flour in a pan in an oven. It should be browned at once and kept on hand for future use. Now melt the fat and fry the onions, with carrot and celery, if desired. Add the flour and mix, but do not brown. Then add the stock and stir till smooth, strain and cook over water for at least five minutes. The advantage of this method is that the butter itself is not browned. Browned butter, of course, means butter more or less burned. And burned fats are not wholesome. But the slight browning of the flour to make it brown is not injurious, and gives the nutty flavor needed to make the sauce toothsome.

FOUNTAIN GIVEN BY W. C. T. U. BODY

Sandersville, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Impressive ceremonies today marked the formal presentation of a marble drinking fountain to the city of Sandersville by the local union of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, during the state convention's sessions. The fountain is a lasting memorial to those who worked in the cause of prohibition in this vicinity. The feature of the session tonight was an address by Mrs. Harris A. Morris, noted woman orator, who delivered a forceful and interesting lecture.

Two hundred and fifty delegates are here for the convention, in addition to many visitors and members of the local union.

At 4 o'clock, headed by the band from G. M. C. Milledgeville, four hundred delegates and members of the local union, each wearing the legend "allegiance to the constitution" as head bands, marched to the courthouse square. This procession was followed by the young peoples branch and members of the college, the Loyal Temperance League, 50 strong, led by Mrs. C. B. Hendrix and Mrs. Hattie Rogers, superintendent. These were followed by the high school and grammar school.

When the march of allegiance ended the audience of over a thousand stood in silence while Rev. N. T. Eafford gave the invocation.

Then came the presentation of the marble drinking fountain, which is dedicated to those who worked for prohibition in Washington county. The presentation speech was made by Mrs. Byrd Lovett, county president, and the fountain was accepted by Mayor W. H. Smith, in behalf of the city. Mrs. Mary Harris A. Morris and Mrs. Lella Dillard made addresses.

Music was furnished by the G. M. C. band. Songs by the L. T. L. and by the W. C. T. U. were led by Mrs. B. T. Rawlings. Miss Minnie Will Rogers led the heralds. Misses Gladys Dukes and Miriam Wall led the young ladies.

Atlanta Resident Declares Tanlac Was Wonderful Blessing To Her

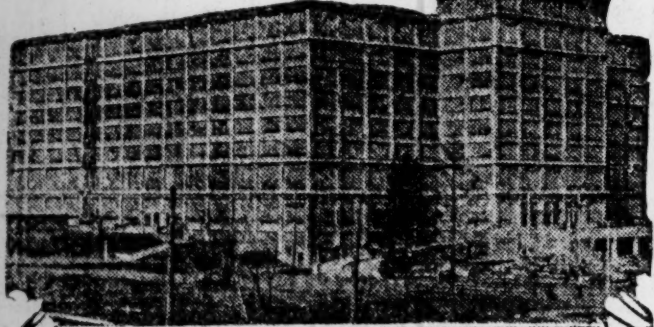

"Tanalac is the only thing I ever found that would relieve my stomach trouble," said Mrs. W. E. Mayfield, 175 Fern Ave., Atlanta.

"I suffered from indigestion and nervousness day and night and at times was almost frantic with pain. I actually dreaded to eat, had terrible headaches, and could seldom sleep well.

"But Tanlac soon had me eating, sleeping and feeling fine and twice since then, when my troubles showed signs of returning, this wonderful medicine quickly stopped them."

"Tanalac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold."

NORTH GEORGIA WILL ADVERTISE

Cedartown, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—At the Cedartown Chamber of Commerce quarterly dinner here Tuesday night, at which a delegation of the Rome Chamber of Commerce was present, a plan of advertisement of north Georgia and a proper presentation of its resources to prospective investors were discussed. The primary idea was to take advantage of the natural resources here to insure a greater industrial growth. Seventy-five attended the dinner.

After some discussion and inquiries regarding the plan of advertising, it was unanimously adopted. The project is to intensively advertise the merits, resources and possibilities of the northwest section of Georgia on a practical basis that will induce industries to establish here. It will attempt to have raw materials converted into manufactured articles where benefits may be reaped. There are 12 counties included in this project. They are Dade, Walker, Catosa, Whitfield, Murray, Chattooga, Gordon, Floyd, Bartow, Paulding and Haralson. Among the towns of this section are Aragon, Adairsville, Buchanan, Bremen, Cartersville, Calhoun, Cave Springs, Chattahoochee, Cedartown, Dallas, Dalton, Lindale, Menlo, LaFayette, Ringgold, Toccoa, Rockmart, Summerville, Trenton, Trion and Tallapoosa.

Secretary E. J. Trotter, of the Cedartown Chamber of Commerce introduced the speakers, briefly explaining the object of the meeting. Secretary W. R. Crites, of the Rome Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker.

Mr. Crites said that Georgia is sleeping over her rights, allowing other southern states to outstrip her when the possibilities of resources for development were not being grasped. He called attention to the fact there were a greater variety of minerals in the 12 northwest counties of Georgia than any other section of the world. Mr. Crites urged that schools and other conditions be made attractive to the country. He pointed out the fact of iron and coal proximity, making an ideal situation for manufacturing.

G. E. Maddox, of Rome, warned of allowing small issues to stand in the way of advancement. He spoke of Cedartown shipping more iron than any other Georgia town as a reason that iron could and should be worked here instead of being shipped to far away smelters to make money for other states while this section received only a pittance for it.

Senator W. W. Mundy, of Cedartown, said Cedartown is beginning to wake up to her possibilities, primarily through the leadership of the chamber of commerce, the Kiwanis club and other organizations. Mr. Mundy said out-of-state men should be welcomed and efforts made to have them locate here.

Asleep 13 Days, With High Fever, Tot Still Lives

Savannah, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Asleep for thirteen days, little Elizabeth Sarling, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sarling, formerly of South Carolina, but for the past year residents here, is a serious puzzle to the many local physicians who have interested themselves in her unusual case. It is agreed that she is suffering from "encephalitis;" there have been other cases on record like it, but none so far known where the patient lived for as long as two weeks.

Usually, it is said, the comatose state follows some other illness, but this little patient had no prior trouble.

On September 19 her mother tried to arouse her at the usual hour in the morning and was unable to wake her. She slept through the day and physicians were not able to arouse her. She is affected by unusually high temperature which defies even ice baths and packs.

FORSYTH CENTENNIAL ON ELABORATE SCALE Set for This Month

Juliette, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—Forsyth's centennial celebration will be staged the latter part of this month during the country fair, and in every way magnify fellowship while exploiting Forsyth and Monroe county. Speeches, music, and stunts are planned. There will be floats symbolic of different times and events and the nearby towns and territory having anything of general interest to exhibit are invited to enter the parade. Several prizes will be awarded to contestants in the parade.

The evidence was obtained in a raid the night of last November 24, two weeks before national guardsmen were sent into the parish as a result of the activities of masked mobs. Captain J. K. Skipwith, excited by the evidence, was not being grasped. Klux Klan is said by attaches of the governor's office to have testified at the April term of court that the evidence had been obtained by him and "his forty-five fellows." Fred Carpenter, sheriff of Morehouse parish, said he was not a member of the party which made the raid.

MACON MAN ROBBED OF $25 BY BANDITS

Perry, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—J. D. Baldwin, of Macon, leaving Perry with a truckload of goats on his return to Macon, Wednesday night was held up by two negroes on the bridge across Big Indian creek, six miles south of Perry on Dixie highway, and robbed. One of the negroes held a pistol in his face and the other struck him over the head. The robbers secured $25 and escaped, going towards Hawkinsville. Mr. Baldwin came to Perry and reported to the sheriff, who telephoned to Hawkinsville and Vienna. The robbers have not been caught.

The Greatest Prayer
in the World

Prayer is the highest act of man. In it he is nearest to his Creator and the farthest from his sometime brother—the brute. All women and most men pray—whether they admit it or not. Prayer is the soul's answer to the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" It came direct from Heaven, and did not unfold itself along with the convolutions of the brain.

Prayer is hope with wings. It antedates all History. It will outlast Humanity itself. But prayer without faith is not prayer.

This is why the Lord's Prayer is the greatest prayer in the world. It is divine faith breathed into human words. All creeds, formulas, systems, philosophies, theologies—are within its miraculous compass. It is Religion itself. Like the dewdrop, it orbes the universe. Wise men have studied it reverently. Great men have lived and died with it on their lips. One-half the world has known no other prayer for 2000 years.

This is why we call it the greatest prayer in the world.

This newspaper wants every one of its readers to have this Bible

But when she was in her room, the blank silence of the house about her, she was defenseless against her growing fears. Her lips were dry, her heart contracted with a sickening dread; never in all the calls made upon her had there been anything like this, finding her without resources, reducing her to an anguished helplessness.

If there was only someone who would understand, someone she could trust, someone who dropped her hands, her eyes widening, fixed and startled, as a name rose to her lips and fell whispered on the stillness. It came without search or expectation, seemed impelled from her by her inward stress, found utterance before she knew she had thought of him, a hand drawing him to her, it went out from her, imperious, an appeal and a summons.

CHAPTER X.
Mark's Call.

That name Tuesday afternoon Mark set on a little hill overlooking the city. It was his first period of rest and ease since his arrival. Today the tension had relaxed, for the first time since he had packed his kit and driven off to his own house, the valley, not to be back till tomorrow.

Mark's thoughts were broken into by a voice calling him.

"Hello, Mark—what you doin' there?"

It was Tito Murano. Mark was his old and this was the first time he had seen him since his return.

"I was just looking out over there and trying to locate the place where the bandits had their cache," answered Mark.

Tito raised a grubby hand and pointed.

"Right away beyond where you see the water shinin'. It's a sort of island—I was out there after I come back, but the hole was all washed away and filled up."

"You were out there? Do you know the way?"

Tito split calmly, almost contemptuously.

"Me? I bin often—I took a tramp once; anyway I would have took him if he'd let me."

"A tramp!" Mark straightened up.

"When?"

The episode of the tramp had almost faded from Tito's mind. Now in company with one who always understood and never scolded, he was filled with a desire to tell it.

"Do you remember what the man looked like?" asked Mark when the boy's story was finished.

"Awful poor with long whiskers all sort 'er stragglin' round. He'd a straw hat and a basket and eyes on him like he was sleepin'."

Mark immediately recognized the tramp to whom he had given the drink of water.

They walked back together, or rather Mark walked and Tito circled round him.

That night in his room under the eaves Mark did not sleep till late. The house sank early into the deep repose following the day's work. The nurse's lamp brightening one window in his black bulk, Mark, his hands clasped behind his head, looked at the blue space of the window and dreamt of Lorry. Holding the picture of her in his heart, he finally fell asleep.

Some hours later he awoke with a sound of her voice in his ears. She was calling him—"Mark, Mark," a clear, thin cry, imploring and urgent.

He sat up answering, heard his own voice suddenly fill the silence loud and startling. "Lorry," and then again lower, "Lorry." For a moment he had no idea where he was, then the starlight through the open window showed him the familiar outlines, and, looking steadily about her, repeated, "Lorry, where are you?"

He was fully awake now and rove. He struck a match and consulted his watch—a quarter to four. Then, as he dressed and threw some clothes into a bag, he thought over the quickest route to the city. He traveled a few lines to his sister, Sadie, stood in the note up across the face of the clock, and, his shoes in his hand, stole down the stairs and out of the house.

Above the sky spread, vast and far removed, paved with stars and multitudes of starry light looked up at it. As his glance fell back to the road he suddenly knew where he had seen the tramp's eyes. There was no sign of recognition, no startled uncertainty. He saw them looking at him from the face of Boye Mayer, standing in Lorry's drawing-room.

He stopped dead, staring ahead. Then he forged forward at a swinging stride.

While Mark was thinking of Lorry in his room under the eaves, Garland, projected out of his hiding place in the hills by a chance newspaper which told him Pancha was ill, stood against the chain of a ferry boat bumping its way into the Market street slip. He was over it first, racing up the gangway and along the echoing passage to the street.

Cushing, behind the Vallejo's desk, yawning over the evening paper, roused at the sight of him. At the sentence that "Miss Lopez was gettin' along all right," the visitor moved off to the stairs. At her door he knocked and heard her voice, low and querulous.

"Who is it now?"

"The old man," he whispered, his mouth to the crack. The door was opened by her and he had her in his arms.

He supported her to the sofa and laid her there, covering her, soothing her, his concern finding expression in low, crooning sounds such as women make over their sick babies. When she was quiet he drew the armchair up beside her, and, his hand stroking hers, asked about her illness.

At first she had resolved to keep the real cause secret. But now his devastated look, his pathetic tenderness, shattered her. As the truth came out under Crowder's kindness, the truth came again. But this time there were no reservations; the rich girl took her place in the story.

Garland listened closely, hardly once interrupting her. When she finished his case broke and she was frightened. Years had passed since she had seen him aroused and now his lowering face, darkened with passion, his choked words, brought back memories of him raging tremendously in old dead battles with miner and cattleman.

"Pa, Pa," she cried, stretching her hands toward him, "what's the use—what can you do? It's finished and over; getting mad and cursing won't make it any better."

But he cured, flinging the chair from him, running out his wrath.

"Who is this fancy gentleman?" he cried. "Where is he?"

Holding to her hand, she said softly: "There's a punishment coming to him that's better than anything you can give."

"What you mean?"

"He's done something worse than the way he's treated me—something the law can get him for. They're getting their net ready for him, and they'll have him in it before the week's out."

He picked up the chair and brought it to the sofa. She sat there erect, her legs curled up beside her, and told him the story of Boye Mayer and the stolen money.

The light was behind him and against he saw him as a formless shape. The silence with which she listened set down to interest. Once or twice at the start he had stirred, the rickety chair creaking under his weight. Then, slouched against its back, he had settled into absolute stillness.

"Well," she said, surprised at his silence, "isn't it true what I said? Hasn't fate rounded things up for him?"

The chair creaked as he moved heavily as if with an effort. He laid his hands on the arms and drew himself forward.

"Yes," he muttered, "it sounds pretty straight."

"I guess there won't be a more surprised person in this burg than Mr. Boye Mayer when they come after him."

"Do you know when they're calculatin' to do it?"

"Thursday or Friday. Charlie said he was going to give the express people his life some time tomorrow and after they'd fixed things he'd spring the story in The Dispatch."

When Garland passed out his immediate desire for silence and decision—a place where he could recover from the stunned condition in which Pancha's story had left him. He stumbled over a sidewalk's coping and stole to a bench under a tree.

He sat and thought. Any information of the lost bandit would gain clemency for Mayer, and Mayer had a clew. Knapp would remember the paper taken from his partner's coat and buried over a sidewalk's coping and stole to a bench under a tree.

In Siskiyou he had witnessed the cross-examination of a girl, daughter of an absconding murderer, and the scene in the crowded courtroom rose in his memory, with Pancha as the central figure. They would have broken her down as they had the murderer's daughter. She would know everything. There would be no secrets from her any more.

Wanting to keep her in ignorance, he had created a situation that had worked out worse for her than for him. He could have cried to the heavens to let her know him for what he was, was a retribution too great for his sins. Death would have been a release, but he could not die. He must live and make one final fight to preserve the belief that was his life's sole apology.

That determination toughened him, his despair past, and wrestling with his sins. Death would have been a release, but he could not die. He must live and make one final fight to preserve the belief that was his life's sole apology.

He would tell the man, give him warning and let him go. There was plenty of time; the authorities were not yet informed; no one was on the watch. Mayer could leave the city that morning and make the Mexican border by night. It was the only way out and it dragged his penance with it—Pancha unavenged, the enemy revealed, the prison doors sealed for the flight of their mutual despoiler.

Three strokes chimed out and he rose. In a drug store he went to a telephone booth. Almost on top of his request for Mr. Mayer came a voice, wide-awake and incisive:

"Hello, who is it?"

His answer was very low, the deep tones hoarse despite his effort.

"You boys stay outside today and listen from there."

"BABE RUTH AT BAT."

"Is this Mr. Boye Mayer?"

"Yes. What do you want? Who are you?"

"I don't matter who I am. I got something to say to you that matters. It's time for you to sleep."

There was a momentary pause, then the word was repeated.

"Skip?"

"Yes—get out. You've got time till tomorrow afternoon. They'll be looking for you then."

Again there was that slight pause.

"Who's looking for me? What are you talking about?"

Garland sought his words, then he gave them in short, telegraphic sentences:

"End of August. The rules—opposite the Ariel Club. Twelve thousand. Whatcher House. Sacramento. Harry Romaine."

The pause was longer, then the voice came breathless, shaken:

"Who's behind it?" and the restraint

he had put on himself gave way.

"If I was there you'd know—I'd make it plain. You thought you'd struck someone who was helpless. But she could pay you back and she has."

He stopped, realizing what he was saying. With an uneasy hand he hung up the receiver. Then, stealthily, like a guilty thing, he opened the door and came out.

In his room at Mrs. Meeker's he threw himself dressed on the bed. The building that had gone up next door. Just before dawn Pancha was awakened by a knock on her door. She was up and through the window he could see the long flank of the new building. It was her father she opened it and Boye Mayer came in.

They looked at one another without words, and after the look, she began to retreat, backing across the room, foot behind foot. He locked the door and then followed her. There were pieces of furniture in the way that she skirted or pushed aside without her eyes on him, moving without sound. She knew the door into the sitting room was open and with one hand she felt behind her for the frame, afraid to turn her back on him, afraid to move her glance, the withheld shriek ready to burst out when he spoke or surer.

She gained the doorway and backed through it and here breathed a hoarse, "Boye, what do you want?"

He made no answer, stealing on her, and she slid to the table and then round it, keeping it between them. Her body began to droop and cover, her breath to stifle her; it was impossible to bear it longer. "Boye," she screamed and made a rush for the door. She had shot the bolt back, her foot behind foot. He locked the door

GADSDEN CAR WORKS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Gadsden, Ala., October 11.—Fire today destroyed the erecting shed of the Gadsden car works, an auxiliary of the Southern railway, and adjoining property causing a loss estimated at $500,000. Seven hundred men were temporarily thrown out of employment.

Sixty-six new box cars ready for delivery were consumed in the blaze which also destroyed two stores, one residence, a grist mill, tracks running into the shed, tools of workmen and several small buildings connected with the plant, including the airbrake division. The main car shop was not damaged.

Al G. Field Minstrels.
(At the Atlanta Theatre.)
But three performances remain of the annual engagement of the Al. G. Field Minstrels at the Atlanta theatre tonight, Saturday matinee and night. All those who have seen this year's production are unanimous in the opinion that it is the best that the famous minstrel organization has ever presented. Not alone in scenic display, excellence in both solo and concerted musical numbers, clever dancing and other features that go to make up a minstrel performance, but also in the matter of genuine wholesome fun, it is superior to any show of its kind seen in Atlanta in years. Those who love the best in minstrelsy should not miss one of the three remaining performances.

"The Fool."
(Coming to the Atlanta Theatre.)
It is the belief of the Selvyntes, the producers, that so remarkable a play as Channing Pollock's, "The Fool," should have the best cast obtainable.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1923.

ry a satisfactory husband through the columns of a matrimonial newspaper.

Loew Vaudeville.
(At the Grand.)
Gales of laughter and roars of merriment are greeting the famous comedian James Morton and his family at Loew's Grand this week where this act is the headliner of a varied and entertaining bill. "Jim" Morton is a comedian of the old school and has produced more fun in a shorter length of time than any funmaker who has appeared here in many months.

Phil Davis, black face comedian, brings a trunkful of new gags and jests. He won much approval with some topical songs. His "Mummy" songs being repeatedly encored.

The Breakaway Barrows have one of those somewhat different aerial turns in which they perform some marvelous feats.

"The Three Ages" with Buster Keaton, is a feature picture.

"Why Worry?" (At the Howard Theatre.)
"Why Worry?" is by far the biggest production ever made by Lloyd. The picture was produced on the most lavish scale. Big sets, big crowds, and big people—the biggest was John Assen, an army in himself, towering 6 feet and 9 inches above the ground, weighing 400 pounds.

George McNulty, Atlanta's premier Irish tenor, sings "A Little Bit of Heaven" and "Mother and Child."

The Howard Wonder orchestra, conducted by Enrico Leide and Alex Keese, is "The Light Cavalry."

"The Green Goddess." (Coming to the Metropolitan Theatre.)
George Arliss, the distinguished actor, is to be presented in the metropolitan hold his own and at times outdraw the established screen favorites such as Fairbanks, Hart, Valentino and Mel Blanc.

Alice Joyce, who appears with Mr. Arliss in "The Green Goddess," which is to be presented in the metropolitan theater for the week beginning October 15, claims to have learned much from her work with this remarkable actor and the result will be watched with interest. Needless to say, the hands of Alice are above reproach.

SUMTER FARMERS PLOW UNDER COTTON
Americus, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—An energetic campaign looking to the early destruction of cotton stalks is now being waged in Sumter county. Meetings are being held nightly in the community to discuss the matter. Meetings are being held in Americus, Ga., and in other places in the county. The campaign is being led by the Sumter Farmers' Association.

Monroe Tax Rate.
Juliette, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The tax rate on property in Monroe county has been fixed at $12 per thousand for county purposes. The county commissioners. On the recommendation of the county boards of education, the county board also declared a special levy of $5 per thousand for educational purposes.

JUDGE NATHAN BRYAN TO ADDRESS LAWYERS
Judge Nathan P. Bryan, of Jacksonville, circuit judge of the United States circuit court of appeals for the Fifth district, will be honor guest and speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Lawyers' Club of Atlanta tonight. The meeting will be held in the breakfast room of the Kimball House at 5 o'clock, followed by a dinner at 6 o'clock.

Blakely, Ga., October 11.—(Special.)—The business session of the A. M. E. conference meeting here.

President Elders J. I. Striner, John Conner, J. T. Berry, E. M. J. Striner, R. Lottin and J. H. Ryan are having their pastors read itemized reports of conditions of the various communities where they are in charge. The character of each pastor was passed upon. Three died during the year. They were W. H. Garrison, C. H. Hutchinson and A. E. Freeman.

Jim Rose, a prominent negro lay member, who owns in his own name more than 1,000 acres of farm lands, asked the bishop, presiding elders, college presidents and professors to have dinner on his farm, nine miles from Blakely, Saturday. The invitation was accepted.

President E. H. Henderson, head of negro high school, Cuthbert, told of the modern school building costing more than $200,000 which is now in course of erection.

Henderson has been with the school since 1888.

The conference will come up to the standard of the A. M. E. conference, Philadelphia, said he wanted to leave 670 books with preachers and laymen. Speculation rife on the grounds concerning delegates who will be elected Friday to represent the church in the general conference in May, 1924.

Although the indicated production of Georgia's two major crops, corn and cotton, places this year among the lowest on record, the total valuation of these crops, as well as the total valuation of all crops, bids fair to exceed that of last year, according to the report released Thursday by the Georgia Cooperative Crop Reporting Service.

"While the yield of corn per acre is a little greater," says the report, "the indicated total production is below that of last year, and the lowest since 1911."

"As is always the case, the question of the true condition of the state, from an economic standpoint, is whether or not we have a net amount of value must have to live through the coming year in combined terms of products and money. The farmer who will be forced to buy corn to feed his stock during the next crop season, receives a little consolation from the fact that corn is worth about 35 cents a bushel, and that the average yield from that point of view it seems that the increase in the value of Georgia's crops does not cure a true picture of the economic situation. On the other hand, if the greater revenue from the sale of cash crops in some sections is

New York, October 11.—There were very nervous and rather violent fluctuations in the cotton market today. After selling up to 23.35 on active general covering during the early trading, December eased off to 28.05, but later shot up to 28.37, making a net advance of 47 points and a recovery of 123 points from the low record of last Tuesday. In the last ten minutes, however, offerings became extremely heavy and the price broke to 27.97 or 42 points from the best, and December closed at 28.00. The general market closed easy, net unchanged, to 20 points higher.

The market opened firm at an advance of 38 to 45 points on covering and a continuation of the trade buying noted yesterday. This was accompanied by reports of an increased spot demand at a firm basis in the south, but the demand from the trade to fix prices seemed to be a little less active than it was yesterday and the more urgent buying by shorts also tapered off during the middle of the morning. The market then turned easier under the buying of shorts and reactions of some 20 to 30 points during the middle of the day, followed by another sharp upturn on a renewal of covering and a resumption of house buying. This carried prices into new high ground for the day, with October selling at 28.35 and January at 27.84, or about 40 to 50 points net higher on the general list. These prices seemed to attract rather heavy realizing yesterday's buyers and more selling orders reached the market from the south, causing reactions of 30 to 40 points in the last few minutes. Much of the buying was done by shorts and the day was attributed to covering on an apprehension that unfavorable weather might develop over Columbus and the Gulf, and that the cotton might be confronted by higher Liverpool cables on Saturday morning. Exports today were 31,020 bales, making a total of 1,103,924 for this season. Port receipts 30,880. United States port stocks 597,139.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK

New York, October 11.—Spot cotton quiet; middling 29.00.

ADVANCES SEEN AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, October 11.—During the middle of the morning, cotton prices were at substantial advances, the result of much talk of small spinning and unseasonable weather conditions. Toward the middle of the day the market was at its highest, at 44 to 45 points, with December trading at 47.00, or a point. Realizing sales from the long side were stimulated by the holiday tomorrow, and rumors of financial troubles in Liverpool caused considerable selling in the late trading so that when the close was at about the lowest of the day, 43.00. Port receipts 12,000 bales for the day. Closing sales of December ranged from 27.50 to 27.75.

It was an active market in the first half of the day with buying general in the early trading. Cables were better than the day before, and the scattered shovers in south Texas were reduced to a very small number and the low pressure over west Texas, shown by the weather map, caused uneasiness for the day. The market was supported by predictions of small spinning during the present period. While shorts were inclined to cover in the early trading, and their buying was hastened by the holiday tomorrow, it was the longs who evened up later on and their selling, together with rumor that Texas cotton was moving in this direction for tender on October contracts, checked the rise. After mid-session something of a reactionary feeling was displayed.

NEW TRAFFIC RULES ON COLUMBUS CARS

Columbus, Ga., October 11.—(Specialist.)—City commission, in session today, adopted a new traffic ordinance for the municipality. The measure has been under consideration for several weeks, most of the provisions having been suggested by the local motor club. The legislation was adopted unanimously.

The speed rate was increased, it being provided that no vehicle should travel at a greater speed than is reasonable and safe, not to exceed a speed of 20 miles an hour. Ten miles per hour is the prescribed speed at crossings and in heavy traffic.

ARGUMENT HEARD IN KLAN ATTEMPT TO HALT ARTICLES

New York, October 11.—The United States circuit court of appeals today heard arguments on the appeal of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., of Atlanta, Ga., from an order denying a preliminary injunction to restrain the International Magazine Company from further publication in Hearst's International of a series of articles by Norman Hapgood purporting to expose the Klan.

Counsel for the plaintiff charged that documents and letters printed in the magazine were unlawfully, wrongfully and without the consent of the complainant obtained by the defendant through Rhodes McPhail and Samuel N. Castleton, of Atlanta. Counsel for the magazine asserted that the bill of complaint in the injunction suit was fatally defective, because it failed to show that the appellant was the owner, author or writer of the matter for which equitable protection was sought.

He added that the letters, documents and papers had no literary value, and did not therefore constitute the kind of property right to which equity was sought.

Decision was reserved until later.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE TOURS BOND SCHOOLS

The schools committee of city council will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to consider the Atlanta bond situation following its tour Thursday of the new bond issue buildings.

Edward H. Inman, chairman of the committee, stated that it probably would consider methods of financing the building of the Girls' High school in connection with consideration of bids for the building which were approved by the bond commission Wednesday and transmitted to council.

Mr. Inman was elected to council at its last session on suggestion of Edgar Watkins, who resigned as councilman from the eighth ward because of ill health. He succeeded Mr. Watkins as chairman of the schools committee.

Members of the committee, other members of council and members of the bond commission were taken by Superintendent Charles C. Johnson, W. L. McCallie, chairman of the finance committee of the school board, on a tour of the 17 bond issue school buildings Thursday.

It was stated, will have a decided effect on the council's attitude toward special appropriations to build the Girls' High school. Council members were reluctant to discuss their opinions but Chairman Inman asserted that he does not believe the city should try to go ahead with any more new buildings until those now under construction have been completed.

Approval of the schools committee of council, of general council and of Mayor Sims remain yet to be given before construction of the new Girls' High can begin.

Financial support of Fulton county has been pledged by members of the county commission and Mayor Sims has promised his influence to securing special appropriations from general 1924 revenues to build the school. At least a quarter-million dollars more is now available will be needed for the $493,000 first unit.

Washington, October 11.—Plans for a national campaign to raise $5,000,000 to preserve the name and memory of the late President Harding were approved at the first meeting today of the trustees of the Harding Memorial Association.

The meeting, held in the offices of Brigadier General Sawyer, white house physician, was attended by President Coolidge's Secretary, W. C. Mellon, Hoover, Work and Hughes, Postmaster General New, former senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and Governor Cressenger of the federal reserve board.

The association trustees propose to utilize the memorial fund in the erection of a museum and construction of a memorial park in Marion, the home of the late president; the purchase and maintenance of the Harding home and the building nearby of a structure to house many mementos of Mr. Harding's life, and the endowment of a chair for the teaching of political science in some state university, probably Ohio state university at Columbus.

Headquarters for the campaign will be maintained in Washington. General Sawyer is expected to relinquish his post as physician to President Coolidge in the near future to take over the management of the campaign.

Marion Ohio, October 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The total value of the late President Harding's estate, according to the report of the appraisers filed in probate court here today, exclusive of the Harding Publishing company, which has not yet been appraised, was set at $486,955.64.

McADOO'S CRITICISM ANSWERED BY STOREY

Tulsa, Okla., October 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The charge made recently by W. G. McAdoo that the railroads tried to obtain from the government millions of dollars that did not belong to them in connection with the federal control of the lines during and immediately following the World War, drew fire from W. B. Storey, president of the Santa Fe Railway, in an address prepared for delivery here today before the second annual Southwestern Business Congress.

The Santa Fe executive defended the transportation act as being the first really constructive law ever enacted affecting the railroads, scored those who, he said, are attacking the valuation of the railroads as placed by the interstate commerce commission and told of some of the recent accomplishments of the carriers and what they expect to do in the future.

Mr. McAdoo said he tried to obtain from the government millions that did not belong to us. I want to say that so far as the Santa Fe is concerned, it put in no claim it did not believe absolutely fair and just," Mr. Storey asserted in the address.

"It is a fact however, that the roads came back to us with equipment worn out, with tracks in bad shape, and with all our men unionized and the morale utterly destroyed."

On Federal Jury.

Sparta, Ga., October 11.—(Special.) Several Sparta citizens, including G. W. and Starnes Johnson, of Sparta, and C. W. Coleman, of Devereaux, in this county, have been serving for the first time on the federal jury in Macon. At each session of the court for this district a certain number of jurors are required from this county.
